B.C. Has Trio in Cabinet

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau Friday night named a 29-man cabinet, including eight new members. B.C. has three on the team.

To the old guard which had served former Prime Minister Pearson, Trudeau added such new faces as those of Horace A. Olson, former Social Creditor, as minister of agriculture, and Eric Kierans as postmaster general, later to become minister of communications.

The prime minister also did some considerable shuffling among the veteran ministers, making

● No 'inner cabinet' right now. Page 2.

John Turner minister of justice and Allan MacEachen minister of manpower.
Jean Marchand, Trudeau's right-hand man, becomes minister of forestry and rural development and will later take over as minister responsible for regional development.

This may be the biggest portfolio in the cabinet outside of the prime minister's. Trudeau has pledged to try to cure regional economic disparities. Besides Olson and Kierans, the new cabinet members are:

Jean-Eudes Dube, veterans affairs; Ronald Basford, consumer and corporate affairs; Don Jamieson, defence production, later to become supply and services; and Robert Andras, James Richardson and Otto E. Lang, all ministers without portfolio.

Richardson, from Winnipeg, and Lang, from Saskatchewan, are the only freshman MPs.

Trudeau paid traditional attention to regional representation in the cabinet. Quebec is represented by 10 ministers, including Trudeau, and Ontario by 10.

Quebec Chief Heart Victim

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Daniel Johnson's doctor said Friday night the 53-year-old leader of the Union Nationale government has suffered a mild heart attack.

Dr. Yves Morin, director of the Quebec Cardiology Institute, said in an interview clinical tests show the attack did not damage the premier's heart.

"It's an attack which did not damage the organ," said Dr. Morin, who added that the premier will be able to return to work but will be forced to slow down his pace.

DECISION LATER

The heart specialist said he cannot say at this time how long the premier's period of convalescence will last. He said he probably will be in a position to make a better judgment within 10 days.

The doctor said the attack began at the premier's suite in the Chateau Frontenac hotel Wednesday morning and continued for one hour after he entered the Cardiology Institute at Laval Hospital in suburban Ste. Foy.

CLEARER PICTURE

The interview with Dr. Morin was arranged late Friday night by the premier's aides who felt that an earlier medical bulletin had led to the interpretation that the premier's illness was more serious than it actually is.

Johnson's illness forced cancellation of a scheduled July 11 visit to France and England. He was to have met with President Charles de Gaulle in Paris to review Franco-Quebec educational and cultural agreements and occupy a prominent place beside the French leader at July 14 Bastille Day ceremonies in Paris.

Doctor Deflates Bustline Boom

LONDON (AP) — There may be a built-in peril in those built-in falsies, girls seeking bigger busts were warned by a leading British physician Friday.

Injections of silicone fluid may add extra satisfying inches but they can lead to surgery, he said.

Dr. William St. Clair Symmers, 59, pathologist at London's Charing Cross Hospital Medical School, claims to have seen 31 cases of disfigurement resulting from injection of substances such as paraffin, bees wax, putty, silk tangle and spun glass.

Color Sunbathers A Dorian Gray

VANCOUVER (CP) — Like any Italian, Dr. Ferdinando Serri likes to see shapely girls in bikinis. But not when they are lying in the sun.

Serri, here for the annual convention of the Canadian Dermatology Association, said Thursday sunbathing ages the skin.

And women, he said, puzzle him because they are not taking the advice of doctors.

Lip-Smacking Peril

LONDON (LST) — The amount of lipstick which is "taken" by women every day is worrying a public analyst. The lipstick contains a high proportion of coloring matter and women are swallowing more dyes from cosmetics than they do in any other way, said Joan Peden, Somerset County analyst, in her annual report.

THEY'RE POLLS APART

VADUZ (UPI) — Never underestimate the power of a man in Liechtenstein.

The voters of this tiny state between Switzerland and Austria got around Thursday after 500 years to deciding whether women should be given political rights. They did it right.

Males of Liechtenstein decided to let their women vote. So 2,238 men and 2,506 women went to the polls.

They decided 2,582 to 2,152 — that a woman's place is not in the voting booth.

Male election officials said 1,241 of the women voted to deny themselves voting rights. The men voted 1,331 to 887 against women having political rights.

Now You Know

As many as 300,000 women are believed to have been executed for witchcraft in Europe between the years 1484 and 1782.

Labor Secretary:

IWA Out Monday

A warning that an industry-wide British Columbia coast forest strike could begin within 72 hours was issued by labor leaders Friday following a conference of unions.

"I am fairly convinced they (the companies) have approximately 72 hours to reach an agreement," said Ray Haynes, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labor. "By Monday the men will be walking off the job everywhere."

His remarks were made to reporters following a Vancouver meeting involving the 26,000-member Coast International Woodworkers of America and representatives of the International Pulp, Sulphite Union, the United Paperworkers, the United Steelworkers and the Canadian Labor Congress.

NOT AUTHORIZED

But Murray Drew, president of the 1,800-member Victoria local said strike action has not yet been authorized.

"This is just his (Mr. Haynes') personal opinion," he said, "and he's entitled to it."

"As long as we're still talking, a settlement is always possible."

The meeting prompting Mr. Haynes' remarks came on the heels of another day of negotiations between the IWA and 114 coast forest companies over a new contract. Both sides declined comment on progress, if any. Further meetings are scheduled for 10:30 a.m. today.

SETTLEMENT THERE

"It is obvious if a full closure of the forest industry is to be averted management must get down to realistic bargaining," said Mr. Haynes.

"In view of current settlements it is obvious a settlement is there if the employer puts forth a realistic and responsible offer."

The companies have offered 30 cents in two years on a base rate of $2.16 an hour. The union seeks a 46-cent hourly pay increase in two years.

Meanwhile, about 700 loggers and sawmill workers in the Lake Cowichan area on Vancouver Island continued unsanctioned walkouts Friday.

MILLS, LOGGING

The walkouts affect a Western Forest Products Ltd. sawmill at Honeymoon Bay and the company's logging operation at Gordon River, the Cayouse logging division of B.C. Forest Products Ltd. and the Measachie Lake logging operation of T. W. MacKenzie Ltd.

The 4,000-member loggers IWA local, meanwhile, has set a strike deadline of 4 p.m. next Wednesday if a settlement is not reached.

Barnett By Three

PORT ALBERNI — Voters from the Bull Harbour area have cut the 53-vote lead of New Democrat Tom Barnett to three in the Comox-Alberni election battle.

The final tally Friday gave him 11,842 votes to Liberal Richard Durnan's 11,946.

Because officials ran out of adding machine tape, final figures for the other candidates will be announced today.

Mr. Barnett was out of town during the count, but his campaign manager, Ron Heas, said he assumed that a recount would be sought.

Bolts Torch B.C. Trees

Dry thunderstorms moving through the Interior have ignited 100 fires in the Kamloops forest district in the past few days and weekend warning trends have made the all-B.C. fire picture serious.

Harshest hit was the Horseshoe district of the Cariboo where 50 lightning strikes were reported. A small shingle mill was destroyed. All fires were under control Friday night.

Two-acre fire was brought under control at Sproat Lake Friday. (See Page 33.)

School by Shifts Calls for Protest

JUST A THOUGHT: The way things look right now there is more than an outside chance that some children in Greater Victoria School District will go on shift systems this fall.

This is quite unfair. The people voted the necessary money but the government won't let us spend it.

Why should parents in one district have to put up with this sort of thing while other districts are not forced into this situation?

As was indicated by the ferry strike the government only understands one type of action and that is force. Perhaps if there was a campaign to induce taxpayers to refuse to pay the school portion of their taxes until they got equal treatment then we might get action.

This is the time when Mr. Bennett is rushing around telling the voters not to throw sand in his gears. Perhaps he could help the gears along himself by applying more oil and less wind.

NOT SO: There is a rumor floating around that Ken Hole has given up his post as innkeeper at the Red Lion. It's just not so. Mr. Hole has been and will be attending to a number of business projects in Vancouver but he is still very much concerned with the motel operation. He is just combining two jobs.

ON THE MOVE: One Village Fair occupant has enjoyed so much success he is on the move.

Jewelry maker Brian Jaundrew who makes interesting things with solder and bits of glass is leaving his store

Traitor's Gate for larger premises at Government and Johnson. He will open a bigger store Aug. 1. He will feature art exhibits, men and women's clothes and his own work. Partner in the new venture will be guitarist Jim Black. Mr. Jaundrew says accent will be on really original things.

THAT TIME AGAIN: Now that the story of Charlie White's hotel development is current again it might be interesting to speculate on another that comes up from time to time. You may recall that the hotel project adjacent to the CPR dock was to be built last fall.

What will happen to the good ship A.V. Migns which has been tied up at the foot of Wharf Street so many months? There she lies waiting development. She was to have a restaurant and aquarium, she was to have gone to San Francisco but there she lies.

IT'S OUT AT LAST: The long-promised book on the Empress of Victoria is on the newsstands. The history of the CPR hotel by Geoffrey Halloway is in a soft cover edition which will be followed soon by a hardback.

The Empress is full of anecdotes and Mr. Halloway has spiced this plum pudding of a book with all kinds of treats.

I like his story of the time Winston Churchill and his son Randolph visited the Empress.

"It was during Prohibition and the great man was speaking to a large dinner in the hotel's main ballroom. In difference to the quaint laws then in effect, Churchill was served his whiskey in a silver teapot, the water neatly concealed in a matching cream jug."

"Before the parison phone in, the spelling of whiskey in the way it came in the book. This is the spelling of the Irish tippie. Winston's Scotch should be spelled whisky."

Despite the gems the book contains, Mr. Halloway is sure to get letters from readers who will want to know why he has left out this or that story. That's the way it is with the Empress.

There are plenty of illustrations to help span the years, and it is a thoroughly worthwhile book for those who have stayed at the great hotel as well as those who just know it was the city's most famous landmark.

The book will be distributed across Canada by Gray Campbell of Sidney.

LAST POST: Here's an instant motto for the more militant of the anti-pollution people... Here come de sludge.

Wax-Filled Ear Passages Need Careful Treatment

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: I have always been troubled with wax hardening in my ears and not being able to hear. I have had them washed out by physicians a number of times, but we lived in an area where doctors are scarce and we can't always get appointments.

I have been told that a 3 per cent solution of hydrogen peroxide syringed into the ear will dissolve the wax and help my hearing. Is this harmful in any way?—W.R.

Not harmful — provided the solution merely flows into the ear and then out again. In other words, you use the syringe merely as a method of pouring the solution into the ear, never forcing it in.

A drop or two of sweet oil dripped into the ear the day or night before will soften the wax and permit it to wash out more easily.

My preference in such cases is to have a physician show the patient how to do it. It's simple, but is has to be done right.

Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Molner: Do people who have had a sun stroke have a sensitivity to the sun? Do people who have had frostbite have a sensitivity to cold?—Mrs. M.M.

No. Sunstroke and frostbite are caused by excessive heat (and dryness and loss of body fluids and minerals) or excessive cold, plus the action of wind and dampness. They are not the result of any special sensitivity in the sense of an allergic condition.

However, because tissues can be damaged, a person who has suffered frostbite often has to be more careful than other folks to avoid a recurrence.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can those cream hair-removers cause skin cancer?—T.Y.

Not to my knowledge. If there were any indications of it, I'm sure there would be quite an uproar.

Dear Dr. Molner: My daughter is 22 and married and wants to have a child. Her periods were always irregular. She went to a doctor and he wants to put her on birth-control pills. Does this make sense to you?—D.S.

Yes, it does. The so-called "birth-control pills" were used to regulate irregular menstrual periods before the idea came along of using them as contraceptives.

Once irregular menstruation is corrected, pregnancy frequently becomes possible.

War Papers Arson Target?

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — The FBI is investigating a Stanford University fire Friday. The early-morning fire was blamed on arsonists who also may have tampered with papers dealing with U.S. government research contracts in the Vietnam war effort.

It destroyed university president Wallace Sterling's office, causing $200,000 damage at a two-story administration building.

U.S. Offers Battle Incentive

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. army announced a new regulation Friday that will enable GIs to get out of service sooner by staying in Vietnam longer.

The regulation extends from 90 to 120 days the early releases granted to men returning from overseas without enough time left in their draft or enlistment term to justify assignment to a new unit.

'Together'

Red Help Promised To Arabs

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Communist party chief, Leonid I. Brezhnev, promised President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt on Friday that the Soviet Union and Egypt will "always be together" in the fight to "liberate" conquered Arab territories.

Nasser told Brezhnev in reply that "we are for peace," but he added:

"Peace is not simply the status quo. Peace based on the status quo is simply surrender. Those who advocate peace according to the status quo are wrong."

Nasser and Brezhnev exchanged speeches at a luncheon given in Nasser's honor between two sessions of Kremlin talks on the Middle East deadlock between Israel and the Arab countries since the June war of 1967.

"GREAT PROGRESS"

Nasser said that, in spite of the war last year, "the Egyptian people are making great progress in agricultural and industrial production."

"A great effort is now being diverted to rebuild the armed forces so that they can safeguard the interests of the people," he said.

Nasser thanked Russians for their support and said the Soviet attitude "in political, economic and military fields will have great results."

Nasser plans to fly on to Belgrade next week for talks with President Tito of Yugoslavia.

Vietnam Peace Move

Thant Visits Paris To Push Talks

From UPI, AP

French authorities disclosed Friday that UN secretary general Thant will make a quick visit to Paris for conferences on Vietnam today with new French foreign minister Michel Debre.

Announcement of Thant's trip from Geneva coincided with reliable diplomatic reports that President Charles de Gaulle, his hand strengthened by his regime's solid election victory, might try to play a more active role in a possible Vietnam settlement.

It came as a five-man delegation of the South Vietnamese National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong, flew to France to attend an international congress of jurists in the southeastern city of Grenoble.

The Viet Cong group, plus another delegation from North Vietnam, were expected to outline the latest thinking of their leaders on a possible settlement of the war.

(In Vienna, Thant said Friday night he did not believe very much headway had been made between the two sides at the "official conversations" in Paris. He said he had so far deliberately avoided contacts with either side since the talks began May 13. Thant left last Friday night for Geneva.)

From Saigon, there was a report that troops searching jungles and Communist dugouts have found more rockets apparently hidden for new terror attacks on that city.

U.S. 1st Infantry Division troops poking through tunnels 30 miles northwest of the South Vietnamese capital found 50 Red Chinese-made 107-mm 111-metre rockets with a range of five miles.

South Vietnamese Infantry found 122-millimetre Soviet-made rockets with a 6.5 mile range 18 miles northwest of Saigon.

U.S. Air Force B-52 bombers stepped up attacks on suspected Communist concentrations and storage areas.

Queen's Argentine Trip Cancelled

LONDON (AP) — The British government said Friday it has advised the Queen not to visit Argentina at this time. The sovereign and Prince Philip are scheduled to visit Brazil and Chile for 18 days in November.

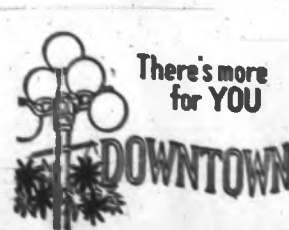

The foreign office said it had told the Queen "the present is not the most appropriate time for a visit" to Argentina and added that the government had fully consulted Argentina before giving the advice.

Earlier, Buckingham Palace announced that the Queen's state visit to Brazil will begin Nov. 1. She will then visit Chile.

The decision not to visit Argentina comes at a time when Anglo-Argentine relations are under strain. The two main causes are Argentina's long-standing territorial claim to the Falkland Islands, on which secret talks have been held between the two governments, and Britain's continuing ban on Argentine imports of frozen mutton and lamb.

The ban was imposed last December during the height of the foot-and-mouth livestock epidemic after Argentine meat was blamed in a government report for starting the epidemic.

Good Housekeeping

PREMIER W. A. C. BENNETT is again to be congratulated on his annual financial and economic report of the province for the year ended March 31.

The "company" in which every British Columbian is an equity holder has had another highly successful year with a surplus of revenue over expenditure providing a lesson in good housekeeping to governments at all national, provincial or municipal levels.

The remarkable feat is that since Mr. Bennett became premier in 1952, the direct debt of the province (over $270,000,000 when he took office) had disappeared entirely by 1960, and has been at nil ever since. During that period B.C. has not resorted to direct borrowing of any kind, and on the 1952 level $130,395,000 of debt servicing costs was saved in 1967-68 by the government, most of which went in tax alleviation and service to the public.

It is true, of course, that the B.C. government has pledged $1,586,505,868 for its various Crown corporations as well as nearly $400,000,000 for municipalities and other local governments, and critics of the government make much play of the belief that so long as these are outstanding the province is not truly debt-free.

Where criticism falls short of the mark is in the performance. The Crown corporations are not only looking after the servicing of their own debt, but they are making a profit too. In 1967-68 the excess of income over expenditure of the B.C. Hydro, PGE and the B.C. Ferry Authority was $13,619,927.

It will be hard to deny that the largest part of B.C.'s indirect obligations are of a type that makes them self-liquidating. Indeed the Crown corporations in addition to paying their way have held the line on their charges, and in many cases have reduced their tariffs to the direct benefit of the public.

But whether one can wholly agree with this part of the premier's financial theory and his system of debt decentralization, the facts are there to speak for themselves. For 16 years British Columbia has managed to finance all ordinary and capital expenditures from current year revenue or revenue surplus, and the province in that time has not been required to raise a single loan in the money market.

Despite this, at the end of the 1967-68 fiscal year the province was able to show a record accumulated surplus of over $141,000,000.

In addition, last year the government provided home-owner grants of $41,490,441 based on $120 per home owner, and this year the payout has been increased to $130.

To accommodate those who have not hitherto been home owners, the government is also paying home buyer grants amounting to over $14,000,000 to 31,000 applicants since the grant was instituted in 1966.

Also impressive is the increased value of the fixed assets of the province which have risen from $188,812,000 sixteen years ago to a 1968 total of $1,076,812,000, an increase of 471 per cent.

This makes B.C. one of the great growth corporations of Canada, and despite carping criticism of political opponents that others could have done just as well with the fertile material on hand, Mr. Bennett as premier and finance minister must be accorded full marks for being an astute financial leader, a developer with vision, and head of a government "that gets things done."

One has only to look at the federal experiences of debt and uncontrolled rising expenditures, of rising taxes both at the federal and many provincial levels, to realize that B.C. has had and still has a remarkably astute government.

Dangerous Weapon

UNIONS, MANAGEMENT and the public generally must deplore the necessity for use of the strike weapon. But the unauthorized walk-out is entirely beyond justification, and therefore to be condemned. Mr. Floyd Lindstrom is a member of the International Woodworkers of America and also of the Lake Cowichan village commission. What he says of the wildcat strikers is entirely valid.

He was expressing the opinion of the great majority of men in his union when he said: "We think it is ridiculous that a situation exists where two fellows can hang picket signs and stop all other workers from going to work..."

Surely the remedy is with the union itself. If a strike is unauthorized it is clearly illegal. And if it is illegal a picket line can have no status. There is no reasonable argument compelling respect for it, and nothing more than a peculiar mystique about its sanctity that prevents it being crossed.

Legal or not, a strike is a dangerous weapon, and it should not be beyond the resources of a sophisticated society to find other means of protecting the rights of the worker, the investment of the employer and the interests of the public.

The current strike on the St. Lawrence Seaway is an example of the disruption that can be caused by a discontented few. In this instance a mere 1,200 men are immobilizing a channel of commerce of vital importance to the nation. Moreover, this second walkout — following the stoppage of two years ago when then prime minister, Mr. Lester Pearson, made his spectacular 30 per cent raise settlement — shakes confidence in the responsibility of authority both at home and abroad.

It is a truism that industry cannot function without a labor force and it is equally obvious that without capital investment, represented by management, men and women would be required to return to a sort of peasant existence, living off whatever resources the land offers. It is necessary, therefore, that there be a firm and equitable alliance between these two essential factors of a full society.

The federal government recently set up a so-called task force on labor relations and in its preliminary report it said:

"There are dispute situations in which reliance on the private decision-making of the parties, with or without the assistance of public conciliation services, may produce results of such a disruptive character as to be beyond the limits of public tolerance."

Disputes involving the public interest — and the public interest is inevitably involved in any widespread stoppage, be it strike or lockout — are not private matters. Decisive action by government, or its agents, is demanded.

OTTAWA OFFBEAT by RICHARD JACKSON, Colonist Ottawa Bureau

Places of Honor Well Beyond the Reach Of 'the Assuming Upstart,' the Taxpayer

ISN'T it just a bit ironic that you who have been courted and cultivated through these last nine weeks of five-year time as the object of all political affection, come up, as always, a nobody?

So it might not be too soon again to remind you that after paying the tax bills, footing the election costs and casting the ballots, you didn't come in with the winners.

For in all contemporary life there is probably no switch as swift as your status and standing before and after the election.

Before, you're everything; in fact, all that counts for anything is you.

After, you're nothing. It's the same after every election.

There are the winners... the new winners who win for the first time... the old winners who have won before... and the ancient and honorable order of the permanent winners whose winning ways come built-in with their appointed place.

And there are the losers, among them you.

Seeing is believing, so turn to the back pages of the Parliamentary Guide and discover the official caste system that few Canadians below the horizons of the national capital probably ever dreamed existed. It is the table of official precedence, and in case you have been thinking that all men were created equal, better run your eye over it and learn that equality is formally classified.

Some people—in fact, hundreds, could be as many as a couple of thousand or so—are more equal than others.

There are 25 officially listed gradations of equality, from the Governor General at the top of the totem pole of precedence to the provincial legislators, the low men thereon.

But not as low as you who, while paying all the bills for the fuss and feathers of precedence, remain, as always, the lowest of the low.

In this federal who's who, between the GG in Ottawa's Rideau Hall and the hundreds of M.L.A.'s in the provincial capitals, rank the prime minister (he's No. 2) in the official pecking order, the foreign envoys (No. 3), the opposition leader (No. 11), the senators and M.P.'s (Nos. 18 and 19).

And by Order-in-Council, passed just two years ago — you thought this rigid caste system was a relic of another era, perhaps? — official titles, designated forms of proper address were proclaimed for a great many of these chosen people.

How did it all happen?

Here's how, as set out, in part, by the Parliamentary Guide:

"Precedence has been defined as the priority of place, or superiority of rank in the conventional system of arrangement under which the more eminent and dignified personages of a community are classified..."

...an ordinary sense of decency, not to speak of dignity... demands that the monopoly of the place of honor be put beyond the accomplishment of the assuming upstart and unworthy elements..."

It all goes back historically to the coronation in 1300 of King Henry the Fourth of England when, by royal proclamation, there was prepared "a table of order of all estates and nobles and gentry..."

And while there are no Canadian nobles, there definitely are "estates" of status and official standing, and just as surely, members of the "gentry..."

Very carefully, Parliament has refrained from giving this classification of supposedly classless Canadian society any legal or legislative determination.

So, again to read it in the Guide, it is all the quietly discreet imposition of what is termed "usage and established custom..."

It's "precedence" then that separates the "dignitaries" from—well, what? The "undignitaries"?

Look at it more practically and it's "precedence" that separates the taxpayers from the taxpayers.

And pining properly respectful observance of the order are the mandarins, the federal deputies of the Civil Service, who modestly rank themselves No. 21.

The American Scene

Nixon Walking with Confidence Towards Republican Convention

RICHARD MILHUS NIXON is no longer fighting for the Republican nomination for the presidency of the United States—he is conducting a mopping-up operation.

Last week it took him into what was once the heart of the enemy citadel, Michigan Governor George Romney's state capital of Lansing. Symbolically, as Richard Nixon trotted briefly down the aircraft steps there to greet him was the only Republican ever to campaign actively against him in a primary. It would be wrong to say that George Romney—wiser and sadder now than he was in New Hampshire last February—looked cheerful, even contented. He looked, in fact, like a rather mournful hound dog.

But he was a hound dog who knew his place in the party kennel. Richard Nixon was his "good friend." He was "a man of courage, tenacity and vigor."

There was "no other candidate who could match his executive experience and his legislative ability." It somehow all made the Republican convention in Miami in five weeks' time sound like a formality—and that, in effect, is what it now is.

Does someone confront Nixon with an uncharitable remark made about him by Governor Rockefeller? The response is relaxed, the smile confident, the expression winning. "Well, you know, I've always said that it takes two to make a quarrel. In a flash, Nelson Rockefeller of the massive family fortune, the formidable political power base and the almost animal magnetism is banished into the corner as the bad boy of the party who, when his temper has cooled, will surely be wanting to apologize."

It has to be handed to Richard Nixon. This year—in marked contrast to 1960—he has played it cool, and he has played it right.

He has not so much answered a need in the Republican party as removed the necessity for any such feeling to exist. Everything has been taken care of. Where other candidates may have stood for challenge, Nixon throughout has represented reassurance.

Yet in himself Richard Nixon—even to those who flock to hear him (less often now at celebratory banquets)—remains identifiable mostly as a ghost from the past. In a way it is his own fault. He has not so much stormed his way to the nomination as moved up steadily and stealthily towards it—until there he is with the prize under his belt. Even his audiences seem to find it easier to salute his comeback ("the greatest," the slogan says, "since Lazarus"), than to go wild over his candidature.

Everywhere he goes, some local version of the Daguerhram Girl Papers turns out and does him best—but it is a hard job whipping up excitement over this strange relic of the Eisenhower era with his five o'clock shadow, his ski-jump nose and his total lack of a political extrovert's gifts.

Even when he tries to overcome it, this last disability shows through. Responding to hands thrust through an airport fence, Nixon will sometimes feel the need to "say something," but when it comes it is as a sad let-down. "Keep well" is as often as not the injunction delivered — and then, as if in recognition of the puzzled, bemused expressions in front of him, there follows the somewhat lame explanation: "That's right. We want everyone fit and well for November." It is, to say the least, hardly the style of a Kennedy, a Lindsay, or even a Trudeau.

He remains, in fact, a faintly unnatural public figure in a communications age, if only because he is so clearly inept at making personal contact with groups or individuals. Even on his own campaign plane he talks to reporters as if they comprised a huge audience at a public meeting. The hands move the air — on and off the platform he practices all a high school debater's extravagant use of gesture — the choice of language is rhetorical rather than conversational, the manner at best is that of a slightly-exasperated lawyer trying to get a recalcitrant jury to see a perfectly obvious point.

But if there can be no "A" for Aptitude, there should at least be an "E" for Effort. His is not a particularly sparkling, or even original mind, but it grinds away doing what it thinks is required of it.

London, you said? Yes, I remember my last visit there very well. It was this clearly to show that he had risen above any embarrassment over the past just after I'd been defeated for the governorship in California. Now let me see, whom did I meet? And the very names that come to his mind are somehow revealing — Montgomery, Macmillan, even (after some effort) Lord Thomson of Fleet. Whatever may be the contradictory views about Nixon, few would recognize in him the wave of the future.

Yet, however improbably, that is just the impression that he is now striving to put over to the American electorate. He is a highly professional platform person — and it is perhaps a striking tribute to his persuasive powers that when he attempts to identify himself with what he claims is "the mood for change" in America no one seems to detect any incongruity.

It is a remarkable achievement — for even as he is establishing the national breakthrough to come in the 1970s he is distilling the political attitudes of the 1950s. "I say to you that when respect for America has fallen so low that a fourth-rate power can hijack one of our vessels on the high seas, then this nation needs new leadership."

When an American president sits across the table from Communists he must always be able to speak from a position of strength and not of weakness. "This country is entering a period of unprecedented peril, not because the administration has failed to detect the growing Soviet A.B.M. threat, but because it has failed to admit it." If this is "the new mood" of 1968, then history must truly have stood still.

But, of course, Richard Nixon knows what he is doing. The "mod" verbal clothes about being "the candidate of change" are only a disguise. Fundamentally Nixon believes that beneath all the turmoil of the past few months one voice has been muffled, the voice — as he put it in a broadcast last week — of "the great, quiet majority. Those who are neither young nor poor, are proudly in the mainstream of American life and are determined to stay there."

In 1968, as in 1960, these are Richard Nixon's people, and he is their man. Perhaps the only difference is that this year — with all its pent-up frustration and dissatisfaction which is not by any means confined to the Left — there could well turn out to be enough of them ready to make the final commitment to Nixon by electing him president.

Age of Un-Reason

Can Religion Cure Afflicted Mankind?

By DR. ARNOLD TOYNBEE

RECENT progress of technology has endowed mankind with virtually unlimited potential wealth and power, but in piling up riches for us, technology has sabotaged our relations with each other. The way of life that technology produces and requires creates a psychological climate of exasperation and intramural warfare which is even making us lose its material product away.

America is squandering wealth on a war in Vietnam which is taking a mounting toll of Vietnamese and American lives. The richest country in the world now has not enough resources to spare for relieving the miserable plight of a poverty-stricken minority of its own population.

Peace is an urgent need for both belligerents in Vietnam, yet their spokesmen confront each other uncompromisingly in Paris. The Americans are exasperated at being frustrated militarily; the Vietnamese are exasperated at this second attempt — by America, stepping into France's shoes — to decide Vietnam's destiny for her by force of Western arms.

The same mood holds in its grip the Nigerians and the secessionist Biafrans, the Arabs and Israelis. Any one of the three current conflicts could grow into a worldwide conflagration.

The same temper is also bedeviling industrial relations. The explosion of anger among industrial workers in France had been accumulating for years behind a facade of apparent financial and economic well-being. A similar upheaval has started in Britain, at a time when the country's economy is already threatened. One portent has been the breakdown of relations between the administration and the pilots of the British Overseas Airways Corporation, a dispute in which both parties are highly intelligent, skilled, cultivated, and normally responsible-minded people. Yet, even in this case, exasperation and intransigence have prevailed over reasonableness and prudence.

A handful of women workers in the Ford plant in Britain have made relentless use of their strike power to cause widespread unemployment and huge losses of exports. The women's demand for equal treatment with male workers has been ignored, but their resort to force is likely to be calamitous for them as well as for their employers and for the whole community.

These conflicts which have broken out in different parts of the world are of different kinds but the state of mind making the conflicts so intractable is everywhere the same.

The combatants feel they are suffering intolerable injustice; their claims for hearing and redress are being persistently ignored. They have had enough; they are now going to show their teeth, whatever the consequences — including the consequences for themselves.

The American poor, who are a local minority in the United States, are nevertheless members of a global that, in the world as a whole, is overwhelmingly strong in numbers. The wealth churned out by our triumphant technology has stuck in a minority's hands, and the gulf between the rich and the poor is widening. This is happening as between the spiritual, and therefore it seems likely that the malady can be healed only at a spiritual level. It can hardly be a sheer accident that the present breakdown in human relations has coincided in date with mankind's loss of faith in traditional religions. There are better religions and worse ones; there are religions that are out of step with the times and others that are more relevant to the problems and the needs of the day. But every human being has a religion of some sort, even if he is not aware of it.

The post-Christian ideologies — nationalism, communism, individualism — are the present generation's substitutes for the religions of our forefathers, and these are stones in place of bread. The twentieth-century Croesus is a spiritual pauper, and this is perhaps the underlying reason for his failure to come to terms with himself.

It took some centuries of religious dissonance to bring the traditional religions into their modern disrepair. Since the Second World War the old religions have begun to show a welcome new spirit of mutual good will and esteem. If religion does regain its hold, it may present itself in quite new outward forms, but, if the spiritual essence is there, this could provide the cure that mankind now sorely needs.

The operation of this cure will not be easy or rapid; the sickness which it has to overcome is grave. Less radical remedies, such as reasonable new laws and enlightened self-interest, can serve as stopgaps and as auxiliaries for a revival of a higher kind of religion than the ideologies. But these would be substitutes will not serve; they are blind; and, "where there is no vision, the people perish."

Secret of Success

Kiss in the Morning Not Always Advised

By FRANK LOWE

JUST when summer has arrived and a fellow begins to believe maybe life is worth living after all, a news item like this one comes along:

"A West German medical magazine reports that the husband who kisses his wife every morning before he leaves for work enjoys better health, lives longer and earns more money than the husband who doesn't."

Let me tell you, reading stuff like that can make even the brightest summer day turn a little brown at the edges. Don't get me wrong. I think kissing a wife is a fine thing — even if the wife you kiss happens to be your own. But to be told that unless you perform this feat every morning, every week, every month, every year — well, it's enough to make a fellow's hips ache.

I have a hunch that the medical man who wrote this advice, like most scientists, is long on theory but a little lacking in practice. I mean, does he really know what is involved in kissing the average wife on the average morning?

If he doesn't, I can fill him in. During the fall, winter and spring the average wife in the average home is not always kissable. Not that she isn't madly attractive in her wrapper and a natural hairdo — it's mainly that she never stays in one place long enough to be kissed.

She is finding school books, misplaced overshoot, whipping up breakfast, all that sort of thing. And while I don't know about you, at my age I need a stationary target. Otherwise I'm liable to end up kissing my mother-in-law. During vacation periods, another kind of problem presents itself. During such times an eerie, unnatural hush envelops the house in the early morn as Good Old Dad prepares to face yet another day.

And, at this time, if he followed the doc's advice and limited on his morning kiss, he would have to be very brave. Because he would have to wake up his wife to perform this chore — and waking up a wife and mother on one of the few occasions when she can sleep in is about as rash an act as kicking a tigress in the ribs.

Another drawback to this "kiss every morning" program is that mornings are really not meant for romance. I think it is just white-dandy to lean across a small, intimate table with the candlelight reflecting in the wine and steal a kiss. In fact, I only wish it happened more often.

But somehow leaning across a table to steal a kiss in the harsh daylight glinting off the empty shell of a soft-bodied egg — well, it simply isn't the same. Somehow I don't think my heart, or her heart, would be in it.

And why, I ask, should kissing one's wife be a scheduled affair? What's so great about a pre-work peck? I bet you, if I really put my mind to it, I could think of many more appropriate times to kiss one's wife. And I certainly don't need a doctor to be there giving instructions.

Liu, Red Guards Too Much?

Mao Unhappy with Struggle

AP, from Hong Kong

A purported Red Chinese army pamphlet quotes Mao Tse-tung as saying last summer he might lose the power struggle, and that he was surrounded by many opponents.

He also is said to have observed that his militant young Red Guards were unfit to govern.

Western analysts, who try to assess Chinese reports for their governments, were divided as to whether the document is authentic. It was published Friday in Ming Pao, an independent Hong Kong newspaper.

Some analysts were inclined to accept it at face value. Others thought it a clever forgery, perhaps manufactured in Hong Kong and based upon knowledge of what has happened in the power struggle between Mao, the Communist party chairman, and followers of President Liu Shao-chi.

"It is still very possible that followers of Liu Shao-chi will gain the ultimate victory and we will suffer the ultimate defeat," Mao is said to have told a foreign military delegation last August.

The delegation was not identified, but a military delegation from Mali was in China last summer and met with Mao in the last week of August.

"It would appear to many to ring true but that in itself is not enough to be able to determine that it is in fact an authentic document," one analyst said.

Of the Red Guards who have been ripping China apart with uncontrolled violence since Mao created them at the start of his so-called cultural revolution, Mao is quoted as saying they had been valuable but were not experienced enough, not disciplined enough, nor strong enough to take a major role in ruling the country.

"If the revolutionary rebel Red Guard organizations assume power, they will be immediately driven out of power again by the counter-revolutionaries," the chairman is supposed to have said.

"Therefore, the revolutionary rebels cannot be allowed to assume power, even though their revolutionary spirit is excellent."

Mao is reported to have told the delegates that in the beginning "I wanted to select and train my successors from among the intellectuals but now it is my view that this is far from ideal and not possible."

"All intellectuals, including those currently studying in schools are fundamentally bourgeois and are not to be trusted."

Replacement Justice Praised

Vocal Warren Rejects 'Lame Duck' Charge

U.S. Chief Justice Earl Warren has dismissed the view that President Johnson should have left open the vacancy created by Warren's retirement and praised the person Johnson selected to succeed him.

In his first real news conference since he went on the highest court 15 years ago, the chief justice refused to be drawn into a discussion of whether he retired at this time so his successor could be chosen by Johnson instead of the president to be elected in November.

But he praised Johnson's selection of Associate Justice Abe Fortas as his successor as "splendid." And he shrugged off the notion that Johnson, as a "lame duck" president, might have left the vacancy open.

"I don't think a president is a lame duck president because his term is running out," Warren said.

He said the court should never be without its highest judicial officer "because the court is a continuous body and should have the leadership it is entitled to have."

Warren pointed out that, under a constitutional amendment, a president may only serve two terms and consequently those who label Johnson a "lame duck" president would have to apply that label to any chief executive serving his second term.

Warren, 77, was generous in his praise of the "splendid choice" of Fortas will make a "great chief justice" in view of his record as a lawyer, government administrator, teacher and three-term member of the court.

"I can't imagine a better background," he said.

Warren used the occasion to take his first public stand on capital punishment. He opposed it.

"Throughout my life there has always been something that has been repulsive to me to have the government take human life when we are asking everyone else not to take human life," he said.

Reviewing his years on the court, Warren said the cases he considered highlights of his career were the decisions striking down segregation in public schools, requiring the one-man, one-vote rule be applied in state legislatures and providing that every man, rich or poor, must be provided with an attorney in a criminal case.

He said he had not decided whether he would take advantage of the law which

Johnson

Why Johnson Quit

From UPI

President Johnson confided to Vice-President Humphrey that one of the reasons he was stepping down was because he was afraid he might not live through another term, according to Look Magazine.

An article by Drew Pearson in the magazine's July 23 issue quotes the president as breaking the news to Humphrey only hours before he told the nation.

After telling the vice-president he didn't think the people would believe his move for peace unless he stepped down, he added:

"There's another thing. I'm tired. I'm getting old. All the men in my family have a record of not living much over the age of 60. I'll be 60 this summer. I've had a heart attack. My health is pretty good. I think my chart is as good as yours. But I'm not sure I could live out another term. And that's not the way I want to end my life."

The president's oldest daughter, Lynda Bird Robb, had provided the final clincher on the morning before he was to address the nation.

She had flown back to Washington after seeing her husband off to Vietnam.

"She was pale as a ghost," the president said. "She talked to me about what a fine boy Chuck was, in the past tense, as if he was never coming back. And she said, 'Daddy, I want to ask you a question. Why do we have to fight over there when so many people are opposed to the war? Why do we have to send 300 boys over there in Chuck's company when there's so much opposition here at home to the war?'"

The president announced his decision to retire at 9:40 p.m. that night.

Generation Gap Felt

U.S. Communists Want Youth for Leadership

From UPI

The American Communist party, which once imagined itself as a youthful surfer riding the wave of the future, has conceded it too suffers from the generation gap.

"There is a reflection of the generational gap in the country within the Communist party," said Dr. Hyman Lumer, the educational director and one of three middle-aged party spokesmen who held a news conference at a New York hotel where the party is hiding a closed convention.

Lumer, dressed in a conservative grey business suit, said the party's membership was still predominantly middle-aged and older, but he said it was trying to bring young people into positions of leadership "as quickly as possible."

He said the party did not "feel we're losing young people," and that the generational gap in the Communist party was "easier to handle" because people who come into the party have a common outlook to start with.

Lumer, like the party's

general secretary Gus Hall, said the Communist party disagreed with the theorists of the "New Left" because their program "calls for doing away with what exists now but fails to provide explicit programs for new institutions."

Hall condemned the revolution theories of the New Left as "petty bourgeois radicalism."

Lumer said the convention voted Friday to add the "crisis of rebellion among youth" to four other crises the party said existed in America. The other crises were said to be the Vietnam war, "ghetto explosions," labor unrest and a trend toward "suppression of dissent and resistance."

He said the "rebellion among youth" was "more profound than any generational gap."

"In schools and universities, in black ghettos, in brown barrios, in trade union ranks, in the electoral arena and the anti-war movement, the discontent and militancy of the young generation are dynamic elements of the struggle against the status quo."

One of the purposes of this convention was to decide whether the party should endorse candidates for president and vice-president or name its own candidates.

Simon W. Gerson, chairman of the convention press committee, indicated the party was likely to name Hall as its presidential candidate.

Premier Fights Hard To Prevent Election

From CP

Political storm warnings for Premier Joseph Smallwood have been hoisted here but no one seems to know yet if the disturbance will be a squall or a hurricane.

The 67-year-old premier reiterated Friday the statement he made soon after the June 25 federal election — that he had "no intention" of calling either an early provincial leadership convention or an early provincial election, "if early means this year."

But John C. Crosbie, the 37-year-old St. John's lawyer who resigned from the provincial cabinet in May following a disagreement with the premier, gave an indication Friday he may have his own ideas of what should be done within the provincial Liberal party.

Smallwood

Crosbie, one of several prominent Newfoundland Liberals expected to be a candidate for the leadership of the party should Smallwood resign or be forced out, made a surprise announcement that he plans to hold a press conference late next week to assess the federal election results as they affect the provincial Liberal party. Progressive Conservatives swept six of the seven seats in the June 25 election.

Later Friday, Crosbie said if there is a Liberal leadership convention within the next year, he would offer himself as a candidate "if I felt I had support, but I would be happy to support anyone that a free and open convention selects."

Crosbie said he is not planning to suggest that Premier Smallwood should resign.

Rather "the question of the leadership is something the premier himself should decide upon after discussions with members of the party."

"There is absolutely no question of simply 'dumping' a man who has successfully led the party and the province for the past 19 years."

Crosbie's feeling that the provincial Liberal party needs a new direction has been well known since he resigned from the cabinet, after charging that cabinet opinion was being stifled by the premier. Crosbie was minister of health before he resigned and took a seat as an independent Liberal in the house of assembly May 14. Another cabinet minister, Clyde Wells, 38, also resigned.

The premier asked for Crosbie's resignation, charging him with disloyalty to the cabinet and with using his cabinet influence to get contracts for family business firms. Premier Smallwood later withdrew the accusations of impropriety and publicly apologized to Crosbie.

Meanwhile, Conservative Leader Gerald Ottenheimer is waiting and watching.

At a press conference Wednesday, he called the situation "extremely fluid," he said his party would be "very lax" if it were not prepared for an election at any time.

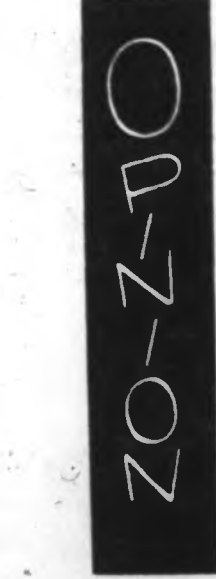

He said his party is actively preparing to form the next government of Newfoundland.

Premier's Itinerary Ranges to Interior

Premier Bennett will be on the campaign trail all next week as he visits one Lower Mainland and one Interior riding, where byelections are to be held July 15.

He addressed a Sacred rally in Oak Bay junior high school Thursday night in his only scheduled appearance in Oak Bay where a third byelection will be held on the same day.

On Monday night the premier will speak at a rally in the Centennial Theatre in North

Windows Stolen

City police received confirmation Friday of the widely-held belief that thieves will steal anything.

Sometime the night before, someone found a house at 2558 Rose was being demolished, and made off with the front door and several windows.

City Hall Wins Contract

With the contract for the Hillside to Day segment of the new Rose Street road awarded to City Hall, work will begin next week.

Victoria's public works department was one of three bidders for the job of building the six-lane, centre-meridian highway which will be part of the new transportation artery through the 30-acre urban renewal area. Victoria's bid was $165,136 — almost $30,000 lower than the next offer.

City engineer James Garnett said Friday that normally, his department would estimate a job, submit the estimate, get permission from city council and then carry on with the work.

However, in this instance, where federal money was involved in the urban renewal project, it was necessary to prepare an estimate and submit a public bid along with other contractors.

Officer Gassed On Duty

One of three Victoria police officers who were called to a Niagara Street home for assistance late Thursday, after the freeing unit on a refrigerator broke, ended up with a brief stay at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Constable Fred Mills, who inhaled a poisonous gas escaping from the broken unit, was released after examination.

He had been called to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kendall, 131 Niagara, after the unit broke while the refrigerator was being moved.

Courtroom Parade

Stub of Cheque Break-In Clue

Anyone who doesn't believe the offender returns to the scene of the crime should consult 35-year-old Robert E. Brown of 122 Market.

Brown not only returned but he committed the same crime all over again and left his calling card while he was at it.

Police evidence Friday in Central Magistrates Court showed he had broken into the Six Mile Cafe on Island Highway in Cowdoy June 28 and again Thursday, sandwiching these events with a break-in and the theft of tools Tuesday from a shed on Finney Road in Cowdoy.

CHEQUE STUB

He got about $40 from a cigarette machine in his first visit to the cafe and $30 in money and cigarettes the second time.

However, on his second visit he dropped and left a cheque stub bearing his name. Magistrate William Ostler was told.

Brown, who pleaded guilty to three charges of breaking and entering, was remanded to July 15 for a pre-sentence report.

In dismissing two charges of false pretences against Donald A. Bell, 38, of 306 Southgate, Magistrate Ostler suggested that some measure may be taken in the future to curb the use of the court as a collection agency.

He indicated to Crown counsel J. W. Anderson it may be well to consider certain sections of the Criminal Code dealing with compounding felonies.

It implies a certain amount of guilt against the victim of a bogus cheque case if the victim has promised no police action in return for his money.

The charges against Bell concerned the passing of a bad cheque in the amount of $19.71 to pay a grocery bill and another in return for $42 in cash of the same Cook Street grocery store.

LACK OF KNOWLEDGE

The cheques were returned from the bank with the notation that there were insufficient funds.

While there was no evidence in this case that the grocer had tried to make a deal to get his money back, Magistrate Ostler, referring to other recent cases, said:

"A number of people in this community have a marked lack of knowledge of the proper function of criminal courts."

Howard G. Leeson, 27, of 1255 Johnson, was fined $250 or one month in jail after being convicted of common assault.

The prosecution withdrew a charge of unlawfully entering the apartment of Dianne Cooper, 21, at 1474 Fort, when conflicting testimony was heard during Friday's preliminary hearing on the charge.

The charge of common assault was then substituted. Leeson had at an earlier hearing elected trial by a higher court on the unlawful entry charge.

Architects Deplore Classroom Limits

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Architectural Institute of B.C. says the provincial government's ceiling on school construction costs were set arbitrarily and are unrealistic.

The institute's schools committee said Thursday education officials who blame architects for high school costs should look instead at the provincial government's financing formula.

The government limits school expenditures to $16,000 for each elementary classroom and $22,000 for high school classrooms, the architects say these rates are too low to be achieved.

"These unrealistic ceilings were set arbitrarily on a type of building which was already being built but economically to provide many of the educational facilities in which the government is engaged," the institute committee said in a statement.

"Surely the school is not simply a collection of classroom units but is essentially a building in which the classroom is supported by facilities for physical education, administration, library, staff accommodation, libraries and all the auxiliary areas necessary to support the teaching process."

The architects also accused the government of bypassing them with a committee set up to investigate school construction costs.

"Not one practicing architect from a firm in the province involved in school construction was invited to be a member of the committee," they said.

Ontario Tax May Benefit B.C.

The Vancouver Stock Exchange may be one of the beneficiaries if Ontario imposes a five per cent tax on stock brokers' commissions.

The tax was proposed by the Smith Taxation Committee, which takes about $35,000,000 a year from the Toronto investment industry which takes about $85,000,000 a year in commissions.

John Kimber, president of the Toronto Stock Exchange, says 40 per cent of the business done on the TSE emanates from outside Ontario.

Part of the business could easily go to the Montreal or Vancouver stock exchanges if the new tax is imposed.

It would particularly affect the big block trading of institutions and large investors which make up 5.6 per cent of the TSE business and are highly competitive.

"Nothing is more mobile than a million dollars," says Kimber. "It can be transferred anywhere in the world by wire and could bypass Toronto easily."

CAPITAL SURPRISE

A surprise announcement was made Friday that Capital Estates Inc. would pay a dividend of 20 cents Aug. 7.

The company is controlled by John Labatt Ltd. and has a major holding in General Brewing Corp. of San Francisco. No dividend on Capital Estates has been paid for a number of years.

PULP MILL LOSSES

A loss of $3,350,000 was sustained by the Reed Paper Group in the year ended March 31 on its share of the Prince George Pulp and Paper Ltd. mill at Prince George.

Reed Paper owns 50 per cent and the remainder is owned by Canadian Forest Products.

"We have undiminished confidence in the Prince George mill and do not consider it necessary to make any reserves against the losses to date," says S. T. Ryder, Reed Group chairman, in his annual report to shareholders.

SECOND PLANT

Reed owns 37 1/2 per cent of the equity in Intercontinental Pulp Co., in which its main partner is also Canadian Forest Products. It started production in May.

Mr. Ryder, referring to the company's Canadian interests, said the oversupply situation in pulp and newsprint due to massive new capacity coming on line in production had been a poor one.

Anglo-Canadian Pulp and Paper Mills, owned 96 per cent by Reed, made only 35 per cent of its 1966 profit last year.

The Prince George mill had raised some technical problems arising from severe winter weather conditions, and it was not expected to be making a profit as soon as had been indicated, Mr. Ryder said.

TREATMENT CONTRACT

A contract for $500,000 has been awarded Burrell and Dutton Construction Ltd. by the Taha Co. to expand the intake water treatment facilities for its kraft pulp mill at Gold River.

A coagulation and sedimentation basin will cover five acres and will draw 8,000,000 gallons of water from the Gold River to serve the 750-ton-a-day pulp mill.

SPLIT FOR STOCK

An increase in dividends and a three-for-one split was announced Friday by Revenue Properties.

The company will pay 12 cents Sept. 15, an increase of two cents on the old quarterly rate.

A company spokesman said the stock split would facilitate the company's plans to secure a listing of its stock on the American Stock Exchange.

NEW ISSUE

Issue of 100,000 shares from the treasury is expected to be made by Harvey's Foods Ltd. in the next few weeks.

The company owns a chain of restaurants in Ontario and New York State.

ASSETS INCREASED

United Funds Management Ltd., whose shares were first offered to the public last May, says its combined earnings and increase in value of investments rose to 60 cents a share in the nine months period to May 31.

This was an increase from 32.8 cents in the corresponding period of the previous year.

United manages United Accumulative Fund, United American Fund and United Venture Fund. Combined assets at May 31 were $477,500,000, up from $322,100,000 a year earlier.

ELECTED TO BOARD

Brian Roberts, president of Growers' Wine of Victoria, has been elected a director of the Canadian Wine Institute. New president is Philip Turner of Jordan Wines Ltd. of Jordan, Ontario.

MONEY EASIER

Short-term money was easier again this week with the Government of Canada 91-day treasury bills fetching higher bids for a yield of 6.5 per cent. A week ago, the yield was 6.38 per cent and last month a peak of 7 per cent was reached.

Commercial paper is also showing an easier trend, with Eaton Acceptance dropping its 90 days rate from 7 per cent to 6 1/2 per cent. From 30 days to one year, the new rate is 7 per cent.

Strength is also evident in the bond market, with prices fractionally higher since the Bank of Canada rediscount rate was reduced from 7 1/2 to 7 per cent Monday.

Bail Plea Rejected

Toronto Stock Promoter Staying Behind Bars

LONDON (CP) — Britain's High Court Friday refused to vary the terms of bail for Myer Rush and the 44-year-old Toronto stock promoter will have to remain in Brixton Prison until an acceptable guarantor can be found.

Martin Davies, Rush's lawyer, said he asked the High Court to allow an unidentified woman—an old friend of Rush's—to stand bail but the court decided she did not have sufficient assets.

Rush, wanted in Toronto in connection with a $100,000 stock fraud conspiracy, was placed in Brixton last Monday when he failed to meet new bail terms.

Magistrate's court proceedings for his extradition to Canada have been postponed to July 15.

Rush was charged in Toronto last year with conspiracy to defraud the public in connection with the sale of stocks involving Darton Explorations Ltd. SA and British Overseas Mutual Fund.

Rush, whose business operations are based in Panama, was first picked up by police here June 21. Bail was not initially set at £15,000 under his own signature.

Last Monday, a Bow Street magistrate reduced the bail to £10,000 but demanded that one-half this amount be put up by someone in Britain.

Davies said under British law the person who provides this surety must be an independent person with a clean record and able to demonstrate that his assets are at least equal to the amount of bail guarantee.

Under British law, Rush cannot bring in this money to cover the bail. That, said Davies in an interview, would be a criminal offence.

"And it is very difficult for a person who does not normally reside here and does not normally do business here to find the person with sufficient assets to provide the required surety," Davies said.

He said he found a woman who knew Rush and was willing to stand bail but that Scotland Yard concluded her assets did not amount to £5,000. Davies said he sought in the High Court a variation to reduce the required £5,000 to £2,500 but in a private hearing the justice rejected this request.

Davies said Rush also offered to return to Canada to face charges against him. If the Ontario attorney-general would drop the extradition proceedings and allow him to go back as a free man, but this proposal was rejected by the prosecution.

Mob Sinks with Bridge

LONGVIEW, Wash. (AP)—A 28-year-old wooden footbridge, crammed with people hurrying home after a fireworks display, dumped its terrified human load into Lake Scajawee Thursday night. Scores were hurt, but all apparently escaped with their lives.

"We were lucky," city manager Walter Barham said Friday after rescue crews and divers found no bodies among the tangled, splintered debris in the muddy water.

Two hospitals in this south-west Washington city of 27,000 reported treating 89 injured. Only a handful was hurt seriously.

Police said the 130-foot bridge across a 100-foot neck of the lake in a city park near downtown Longview went down about 10:30 p.m.

Persevering Global Sailor Knighted

PORTSMOUTH, England, reached home Thursday, the Queen at Buckingham Palace on Wednesday.

Alice Rose, the modest vegetable man who sailed alone round the world, was knighted Sir Alec by Queen Elizabeth on Friday.

The 53-year-old grandfather, who received a hero's welcome from 250,000 persons when he stepped on the balcony of his store, tears of emotion in his eyes, and waved to crowds.

"I feel overwhelmed," he said. "I am proud and honored, especially for the city of Portsmouth."

Rose and his wife, Dorothy, who was serving vegetables in the shop Friday, will lunch with the Queen at Buckingham Palace on Wednesday.

Hundreds of congratulatory messages poured in for Rose, including two from Britain's most famous yachtsmen—Opposition Conservative leader Edward Heath, a weekend sailor, and Sir Francis Chichester.

Rose and Chichester started their voyages at about the same time in 1966 but Rose was forced back three times by accidents and other mishaps. The knighthood award paid tribute to Rose's perseverance.

The announcement from 10 Downing Street, London residence of Prime Minister Wilson, said: "The Queen has been graciously pleased to approve that the honor of knighthood be conferred upon Mr. Alec Rose. This recognizes the tenacity, skill and courage which he displayed in his singlehanded voyage around the world."

Ecumenism 'Sign Of Times'

UPPSALA, Sweden (CP) — Pope Paul sent a message of encouragement and blessing Friday to the 2,000 participants at the World Council of Churches assembly who hope to shape the future course of the ecumenical movement and give greater meaning to the role of churches in modern life.

The pontiff described the meeting, which embraces representatives of 350,000,000 non-Roman Catholic Christians in 80 nations, and includes official Roman Catholic observers, as "a sign of our time."

The Pope told the delegates: "Everything you do to advance the cause of the unity of all Christians will be blessed by the Lord."

And he referred warmly to plans for the council and the Roman Catholic Church to extend their collaboration.

How this is to be accomplished is one of the main topics at the meeting, the most widely representative in the history of the ecumenical movement.

Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, the council's general secretary, read the Pope's message, which referred to the pontiff's representatives here as "expressing the lively interest we have in your assembly."

After reading the message, Dr. Blake invited the Roman Catholic delegates, attending the assembly for the first time, to rise and receive the applause of the delegates.

BLACK CHALLENGE

Dr. Blake, from the United States, said he was glad the black people of his country had been stirred up. "I believe by Almighty God"—to challenge the structure of society and not wait for little bits of justice.

He said he was also glad students the world over were "scaring the establishment with their demands."

This did not mean he was happy about extreme Black Power and anarchist students demands, Dr. Blake continued. He suggested the churches "had better look hard to try to discern what God is now requiring of us as we are disturbed by the rods of His anger."

GREEK BOYCOTT

Despite the ecumenical tone of the meeting, the Greek Orthodox church told the council Friday that it was boycotting the assembly because there have been no guarantees against anti-Greek demonstrations.

The decision—the second time the Greek church has changed its mind about attending the session—was contained in a telegram from Archbishop Hieronymos to Dr. Blake.

The Greek primate said his church would not send a European delegation as planned because "the council could not guarantee the absence of anti-Greek demonstrations inside and outside the assembly."

STRONG PLEA

In a posthumous report issued Thursday, the head of the World Council of Churches said the "overturning event" of the last seven years was transformation of relations between the council and the Roman Catholic Church.

The unfinished report of the late Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry was read to the opening meeting of the assembly. Dr. Fry, who died June 6 in New Rochelle, N.Y., issued a strong call for fulfillment of ecumenical efforts.

The report conceded that "thorny problems" had been encountered in relations between the council and Roman Catholics. And it said council efforts to establish relations with evangelist groups had met with "meager results."

With Roman Catholic observers attending for the first time, the council assembly is the most widely representative gathering of Christians in history.

No Progress

Seaway Stays Closed

OTTAWA (CP) — An attempt to resume negotiations apparently failed Friday but union and management representatives did clarify their positions in the dispute that has kept the St. Lawrence Seaway closed since June 21.

"They say our positions and their is unbridgeable," said M. K. Carson, chief negotiating officer for the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, which represents 1,350 strikers.

He said a two-hour meeting in the seaway authority offices here "clarified" the fact that the union wants a 15-per-cent wage increase and the seaway is offering 12 per cent. "No further meetings were scheduled."

Other Labor Woes

From CP

● Ontario beer drinkers can look forward to replenished supplies. The Liquor Control Board in Toronto announced Friday it has arranged land transportation into the province of 6,000 cases of imported beer that had been trapped in Quebec ports by the seaway strike.

● Lakehead grain handlers are in a position to choke off all deliveries from the eastern Prairies with a strike at the terminal elevators of Fort William and Port Arthur. Grain handlers met Sunday to consider a conciliation board report.

● British Railway and union negotiators have sat down to hard bargaining talks in south-west England for the first time since employees started a crippling non-co-operation campaign 12 days ago. One union official predicted an early settlement.

Gunman Depressed

Psychiatry Plays Role In Ransom Tableau

SYDNEY (Reuters) — The gunman sleeps. His teen-aged bride of four days feeds her baby son. And outside, Australian policemen with guns and tear gas wait for some sign that the psychopathic ex-convict is emerging from the pit of his depression.

That was the scene Friday night at nearby Glenfield where 23-year-old Wally Mellish has held a small army of men at bay since Tuesday.

An eminent psychiatrist advised police that Mellish now was in his most depressed period.

"He is at his worst stage, and should not be approached by anyone," said Police Superintendent Don Ferguson.

Marijuana Suppliers Vigilantes' Target

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP) — A R. Ryckman, father of three, said Friday he has set up an 80-member vigilante group to combat marijuana traffic in North and West Vancouver.

Mr. Ryckman said the group has already supplied a steady flow of information to police and as a result there have been a number of arrests and one threat on his life.

He said his group is not interested in picking up youths experimenting with the drug but in getting at the suppliers behind them.

Mr. Ryckman, a West Vancouver businessman, said he became interested when his children and their friends showed him establishments that sell drugs illegally.

"I told friends about it and they told friends and our group just grew," he said.

Mr. Ryckman said three business establishments here cater to young marijuana smokers—one issuing printed invitations to "freak out."

He also claimed every high school here has an organized core of students selling the drug.

RCMP declined comment on his statements.

Victorians Backing Dr. Spock

Victorians will take part in nationwide demonstrations Wednesday in support of Dr. Benjamin Spock.

The well-known pediatrician was recently convicted in the United States of counselling others to break the U.S. draft laws, and Wednesday's demonstrations will be held across Canada and the U.S.

In Victoria, the Voice of Women will be holding a clothesline full of diapers, with lettering spelling out support for Dr. Spock. The demonstration will take place at Douglas and View from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m.

LONDON (CP) — Britain's national health service, subject of bitter controversy at birth, celebrated its 20th anniversary Friday amid sharp debate over how it should be changed to meet future needs.

The anniversary provoked some enthusiasts of the plan into hailing the fiery Welshman who made it a reality, the late Aneurin Bevan.

But most supporters conceded the need for major alterations in the service. And at least one opponent called for its virtual replacement by a system of private insurance.

INSTITUTION

The current scheme, providing medical care for all Britons and financed from taxation and compulsory contributions by individuals, came into effect July 5, 1948, following months of dispute between Bevan, then minister of health, and the British Medical Association.

As it took root, such eruptions grew rare and the service became acknowledged as a national institution.

Health and welfare costs the hard-pressed British economy $4,160,000,000 annually.

UNHAPPINESS

Dr. David Owen, a Labour MP, credits the health service with removing "the major inequalities of care" separating individuals and different regions in Britain.

However, Owen, now parliamentary undersecretary for the Royal Navy, acknowledged in a long article for The Times that there is dissatisfaction with chronic shortages of nurses, technicians and doctors and with old-fashioned buildings, equipment and practices.

He called for introduction of a "universal contribution fully graduated according to either earnings or income" as replacement for the present flat-rate contributions by individuals.

Owen also urged streamlining of the service's administration.

DRAWS PRAISE

He rejects making the service a "safety-net" supplement to private insurance, although the private system draws high praise in an anniversary statement by Arthur Seldon.

He says private insurance is the only way of allowing a citizen "to see and feel he is paying for his medical services."

"The tragedy of the NHS is that by divorcing medicine from money it has prevented us from seeing how much we value medical advice and care," argues Seldon, editorial director of an economic study group.

STRAINED ECONOMY

In countries such as Canada, where he considers voluntary insurance still paramount, more money is being spent on health than in Britain.

Seldon voiced his views in the Conservative Daily Telegraph. But even the leftist New Statesman, in its contribution to the 20th anniversary debate, urges "an upsetting and expensive re-moulding" of the NHS.

Folk Hymns Precede Dialogue

Unrehearsed, spontaneous dialogue and folk hymns to guitar accompaniment will be featured at special early services in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church during July and August.

The services will be held at 9:15 a.m. Sundays in addition to the regular worship at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. The dialogue will not be between minister and invited guest but between minister and congregation, unrehearsed and spontaneous. Rev. Bruce Molloy will conduct all three services.

Rev. Lionel Kenworthy, former minister of the Church of Truth in Atascadero, Calif., will be guest speaker at Victoria Truth Centre for the month of July.

There will be a prosperity meeting Aug. 8 when Dr. William Graham of the Church of Truth, Beaverton, Ore., will speak. He will also take services Aug. 4, 11 and 25. Rev. Robert Bitzer of Hollywood Church of Religious Science will preach on Aug. 18.

Come as you are, then go for a picnic on one of our lovely local beaches, is the invitation of Rev. Cyril Venables of St. Mary's Anglican Church, Metichon.

Mr. Venables said there will be only one service, at 10 a.m. Sundays, in his church through July and August and Sept. 1. "Everybody is invited to these informal worship services," he said.

The ministers and congregations of First United and Metropolitan Churches will worship together at the 7 p.m. services in First Church during the month of July. Through August to Sept. 1, they will have visitors from Israel, Berlin, Germany; San Francisco, Calif.; Walton, Ont., and Edmonton, Alta.

The visitors' book in the narthex of First United Church is a good indication that summer and the tourist season have

Cordova Bay Examines Community

The future of the community of Cordova Bay will be discussed by a group of civic-minded residents at 8 p.m. Aug. 26, Rev. Gordon Walker announced this week. Place of meeting will be announced later.

Gospel Fills Park

A well-known Salvation Army officer will lead the open-air gospel service at the Cameron Band Shell in Beacon Hill Park at 7 p.m. Sunday.

Lt.-Col. Wilfred Ratcliffe is divisional commander of the Salvation Army for southern B.C. with headquarters in Vancouver.

He has held a similar post in Manitoba and Saskatchewan and has also served in Newfoundland and Alberta. He was stationed in Victoria after 5 1/2 years' service in the Second World War.

As on each similar occasion for the past 25 years, the Salvation Army Citadel will be closed Sunday evening to enable the entire church body to attend the park service.

This will be the second in the series of nine services for the summer season sponsored by the Victoria committee of the Christian Business Men's Committee International.

Main Talk

Key speaker at district assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses in Memorial Arena July 18 to 21 is Kenneth Little of Toronto, presiding minister of 41,000 Canadian members of sect. Good News For All Nations is convention theme.

The group first met informally at St. David's vicarage late last month to consider unofficially the community and its welfare. In the group were representatives of various businesses and professions.

Five have reported being quite satisfied with the first meeting, one was neither satisfied nor dissatisfied and three were "somewhat dissatisfied."

Here is a summary of their reactions:

Reasons for dissatisfaction

Lack of knowledge about the problems. Too many topics. Lots of opinions, not many facts. No common point of view reached. Former chairmanship required — all should speak through chairman.

Reasons for satisfaction

Pretty good as an exploratory scramble. Expressed acceptance by all that things could be improved. Diversity of opinions indicated relatively good cross section. Initial meeting cleared away irrelevant information and ideas; future meetings should be more useful and directive. Responsible people in community willing to talk about these matters and sufficiently interested to explore.

Helpful aspects — Diversity of opinions; enthusiasm; group effort to common end; general openness of members; friendly, sympathetic reception to suggestions; interest in community affairs.

To these, Mr. Walker added "my faith in Christ and my concern for the church in the community."

Helping aspects — Variety of topics, lack of knowledge of facts, difficulty in relating to persons on first meeting, lack of agenda. Some reported there were no hindering aspects.

Improvements suggested — Concrete expressions of attainable and fairly short-term objectives; thrusting out of each problem before going on to next one; going away from meeting with something definite in mind to do for next meeting; limiting of topics; sorting out of the relevancy of problems; more detailed and precise goals.

PEOPLE COUNT

It was also suggested that a chairman be appointed and that present facilities and community needs be surveyed in terms of people.

Decisions needed on these questions: What is the Cordova Bay community? Are there problems which can be solved with different or better facilities than those available? What facilities and services are available?

Mr. Walker says he sees two distinct, although inter-related problems — church in community and community itself. The latter should be discussed first and then we should see how the church can help this.

Suggested action — Explore the financial aspects of the church better facilities and at the same time bring it closer to the life of the community. Get more specific and precise figures on development costs. State a philosophy or belief in what the community's aim is.

CHURCH COMPLEX

A church complex was suggested which would take into account the growing scarcity of land, the high cost of maintaining buildings, the lack of parking facilities, the best and most economical use of ground and the space above it, the mobility of church members, the need for office, store and apartment space and for living quarters for the elderly.

LATEST IDEAS

Another suggestion called for the formation of an exploration committee whose duties would include the study of Lewis Mumford, Buckminster Fuller, Harvey Cox and others. This would provide them with the latest ideas in community development and trends in social change.

Also needed is a ways and means committee to investigate practical needs of Cordova Bay. The two committees could then interact on each other to decide upon a plan which would be both theoretically valid and pragmatically possible.

Bridge

Winners of a monthly income contest held by the Victoria Bridge Club last week were George Morgan and Bill Price. The two committees could then interact on each other to decide upon a plan which would be both theoretically valid and pragmatically possible.

Masterpiece on Show

Madonna and Child by Pier Francesco Fiorentino is new addition to permanent collection of Art Gallery of Greater Victoria. Most important single work at gallery, panel painting will be on display all summer. About 18 by 30 inches, it was painted between 1474 and 1497. Painting was donated by former Victoria resident Mrs. Rudolph Gutmann in memory of her late husband.

Throughout Canada

Lutherans Voice Merger Hopes

Canadian Lutherans are working toward common fellowship and may soon merge, Pastor Alfred Johnson of the Lutheran Church of the Cross, 3781 Cedar Hill, said Friday.

"Eventually we hope there will be one Lutheran Church in Canada," he said, "that won't be divided in any way."

Mr. Johnson had just returned from the biennial national convention of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Canada in Calgary which ended Tuesday.

A significant step was taken at the convention when a condition of "pulpit and altar fellowship" was declared with other Canadian Lutheran Synods.

Mr. Johnson said the doctrine of all Lutheran churches is the same. Differences have been mainly in language, nationality and culture.

There have been about three mergers in the last five years, bringing the number down to three from about a dozen.

"I feel we are moving toward eventual merger," he said.

Ready at Any Time

The Lutheran Church in America "opened its arms to all Lutherans" a few years ago and said they would be ready any time to be in communion with all.

The Missouri Synod of the church has not yet made a declaration, Mr. Johnson said, but it was hoped it would move toward merger.

The decision on fellowship comes after many years of fraternal relationship of an unofficial nature and at a time when doctrinal consensus has been reached.

Reciprocal declarations by the other synods would make possible a free exchange of clergy and lay members between the churches.

Other Victorians attending the Calgary convention were Mrs. Paula Fryland, a delegate to the women's section, and Mart Miller.

It was the first regular convention of the Canadian church body since it attained self-governing status on Jan. 1, 1957. Simultaneous conventions of the church's auxiliaries — Church Women and Luther League — were held in Calgary at the same time.

The three conventions, and the laymen's forum, drew more than 3,000 persons to a giant festival rally and pageant in Mewata Stadium last Sunday.

More Funds Passed

About 2,000 attended a western-style supper which followed. Delegates from almost every province approved a $300,000 Mission of the Church budget. Re-elected to a two-year term as vice-president of the church is Dr. S. T. Jacobson of Saskatoon. Rev. Rudolph Bucher of Edmonton was elected secretary of the 80,000-member church.

The Board of Canadian Missions was asked to increase its work in areas of special concern — the social problems of Canadian Indians and Metis and other ethnic groups, work among vacationers, highrise dwellers and residents of slum areas.

The convention was chaired by Rev. Dr. Karl Halfeld, of Saskatoon, who was elected president two years ago for six-year term.

At the end of the Calgary convention he left for Uppsala, Sweden, to represent the church at the international assembly of the World Council of Churches now in session.

The Evangelical Lutheran Church of Canada is one of the worldwide Lutheran body and of the Lutheran World Federation as well. It is a part of the 80,000,000 Lutherans in the world, the largest of the Protestant church bodies.

UN Rights Declaration Subject of Campaign

By DON GAIN

We hear much about the historic Universal Declaration of Human Rights by the United Nations but few people know what they are.

Perhaps that is why the General Assembly of the UN has asked that 1968 be devoted to intensified efforts in the field of human rights which is one of the key concepts of our time.

Perhaps that is why the United Church of Canada last week printed them on the back of their calendars all across Canada.

30 Articles

It is 20 years since the 30 articles of the declaration were passed but no demanding are they that no nation can claim to have yet achieved them.

Garden Notes

Wireworms

By M. V. CHESNUT

The other day I was reading for the umpteenth time that delightful book Greenhouses by E. C. Sherill. It is a novel about an elderly insurance clerk who solves his problems of retirement by lifting himself clean out of his comfortable, well-worn rut and making a new life for himself in a brand new home in a new housing development.

Tom and Edith Baldwin are keen gardeners, and they have a grand time tilling the virgin soil of their new home after the worn-out, sour ground surrounding their old city place.

The author makes much of the tough, resistant sod which has never before felt the touch of a spade, and the joys experienced by the new owners in bringing it under cultivation and tapping all the potential fertility it contains.

I often wonder, though, how the Baldwins made out with their first crop of carrots, potatoes, radishes and other root vegetables. It is my guess they were riddled by wireworms and quite unfit to eat.

Wireworms are not ordinarily much of a bother in well-worked and long-cultivated soil, but in virgin meadowland, such as surrounds a new home, the ground is usually teeming with these voracious feeders. They burrow into the root vegetables, gnaw off the roots of other plants, and even chew up the seeds before they can germinate.

I imagine every gardener has seen a wireworm. These are those little hard-shelled grubs, a little less than an inch long, brown or amber in color when fully grown, white with dark jaws when newly hatched from the egg. They are the larvae of the click beetle, so called because when they are placed or fall on their backs, they right themselves with a sharp click.

Above-ground sprays and dustings don't bother these underground pests in the least, and because of their hard shells, they were considered almost indestructible until the advent of the modern soil insecticides.

One weapon in the armory of the old-time gardener was a freshly combined mixture of lime and coal soot dug into the infested ground. The interaction of these two products released a lot of free ammonia which, percolating through the soil, would at least give the wireworms a bad scare even if it didn't kill them, and usually succeeded in driving the pests into the neighbor's gardens.

Next year, after one look at his riddled spuds, he'd treat his soil with the lime-soot mixture—or naphthalene flakes, which have much the same effect—and you'd have them right back on your doorstep again.

Control of the wireworm came when benzachloride (BHC) was discovered. This did a wonderful job in the flower garden, but for root vegetables it had one unpleasant shortcoming—it imparted a vile, musty flavor, rather as if the carrots or spuds had been stored in an old gasoline tank. A lot of the potatoes we imported from the U.S. during the war had this unpleasant taint.

Aldrin, which came along a few years later, is lethal to all soil-inhabiting pests—wireworms, cutworms, leatherjackets, ants and springtails—and without any perceptible taint. Trouble is, aldrin kills friend and foe alike, and because it is usually persistent in the soil, birds and other forms of wild life are affected.

Just how much of it gets into our vegetables is anybody's guess. Aldrin has been banned for home garden use in Britain. Our own authorities are not too happy about it, although it still has its uses on lawns and ornamental plants.

For the home gardener, about the safest preparation for the protection of root crops in diatomix in its liquid emulsion form, four teaspoonsful per gallon of water applied with a watering can every ten days up to within ten days of harvest.

This treatment works wonders against those horrible white grubs which infest onions, and if you use it on your radish rows, you'll never again have that unpleasant experience of biting into a radish and finding a worm, or what is worse, half a worm.

U.K. Committee Urges:

Put Lords on the Air

LONDON (CP)—A parliamentary committee has recommended that the ancient House of Lords be thrown open to radio and television coverage—but not to newspaper photographers.

A select committee, reviewing the results of a closed-circuit TV and radio experiment last February, suggested broadcasters be allowed to air and screen the debates for at least one year.

The broadcasters should be allowed to choose the debates they want to screen and air, the committee said in its report Friday. There should be no attempt by peers to restrict or select broadcasting content.

Newspaper photographers are still to be banned because the peers believe some shots may have news value, but over-all press photo coverage would not add to a better public understanding of the peers' work.

Defines Intellect

A reader has asked me to try to settle a discussion he had with some of his friends about the difference between "intellectual" and "intelligent."

He said that none of them could make a distinction between the two that would satisfy the others.

Of course, "intelligence" is almost impossible to define. As I have written before, it is a much-abused word in psychology, and is much more variable, vague, and subjective than most psychologists would admit.

But if we concede that there are different kinds of "intelligence," there must be at least some difference between them and what we call "intellectual."

An intellectual, to me, is simply a person with a special kind of intelligence—just as a musician is a person with one kind, an engineer a person with another kind, and a chess player a person with still another kind.

who is particularly good at thinking in abstractions, and in relating these abstractions to their particulars. It is not that the "size" of his mind is any greater, but that the "shape" is rather different from that of non-intellectuals.

Also, an intellectual may not be (and often is not) particularly intelligent in other areas of life, just as some master chess-players barely know how to tie their shoelaces, or some great engineers are as primitive in their social thinking as they are advanced in their technical thinking.

What is perhaps the salient feature of the intellectual mind, as Aquinas pointed out, is its ability to "combine and separate." That is, the intellectual is more able than others to see the differences between things which seem similar, and to see the similarities between things which seem different.

And this ability is precisely what makes him so irritating to other people. They like things in neat categories, in carefully arranged opposites, in familiar configurations. The intellectual cuts across all these tidy mental arrangements, exposing contradictions, pointing out paradoxes, and confusing the simple categories of the commonplace.

Of course, intellectuals can be just as wrong as they can be right. But this is true of any form of intelligence—indeed, the higher the intelligence, the further wrong it can go in its leap from unwarranted premises.

Nobody can be as great a fool as an intellectual who lacks common sense; but it is dreadfully hard for the public to distinguish him from the intellectual who has gone beyond common sense.

Evidence Vanished With B.C. Puff

EDMONTON (CP) — A breeze in Vancouver resulted in a charge being withdrawn in Edmonton Friday.

Robert Beasley, 18, of Edmonton was charged June 3 with possession of marijuana and a substance was sent to Vancouver.

There the chemist was about to make an analysis when a breeze from an open window blew away the material, leaving too little for an adequate analysis.

In police court here Friday, the charge against Beasley was withdrawn.

Stanfield Confirms

Camp Through By Next Spring

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA (Special) — Dalton Camp will retire on the expiration of his term as party president, likely next spring, says Conservative leader Robert Stanfield.

Stanfield disclosed this Friday on his way over from his Centre Block office to the East Block for his first post-election meeting with Prime Minister Trudeau.

Camp had told him, reported Stanfield, that he "won't be re-offering for the party presidency."

The term of president expires on the convening of the Conservative party's so-called annual meetings, which, in the past haven't always been called every year.

Stanfield said consultations would be held on the scheduling of such a meeting, and he thought it might be convened as soon as this winter or at the latest next spring.

Camp, twice president, led the movement within the party executive and at the last annual meeting to dismiss former Conservative prime minister John Diefenbaker.

He was the organizer of the drive before and during last fall's party convention that made Robert Stanfield leader.

Twice Camp has run in Toronto for Parliament, losing the first time to External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp and in this election to a political unknown, Robert Kaplan.

Sails Mended, Oriole Flying

Despite a split spinnaker and a ripped stay-sail, the navy training yacht Oriole is now overtaking other boats in the Victoria-to-Mani International Yacht Race.

Accidents to the Oriole's canvas occurred just clear of Cape Flattery, and she lagged behind for almost three days, according to a Friday night report.

However, she sailed 248 miles during Thursday and Friday, and is expected by her crew of navy reserves and regulars to be a near contender in the race.

The 13 yachts participating are expected to reach the Hawaii finish line between June 15 and 18.

Martin Institute Transfer Studied

Health Minister Ralph Loffmark announced Friday that a joint committee has been set up to study the feasibility of integrating the new $6,700,000 Eric Martin Institute with Royal Jubilee Hospital.

The committee will be composed of representatives of RJH, the provincial mental health branch and B.C. Hospital Insurance Service.

"No definite statement regarding details of such a development can be made at this time," Mr. Loffmark said. "But a committee has been established to work through all aspects of this proposed transfer."

The institute, named after former health minister Eric Martin, is nearing completion on Lee Avenue adjoining Royal Jubilee. The 170-bed psychiatric unit will offer intensive treatment and day care.

Ed's Bright Green And He Wiggles

Ed the iguana is still missing. The bright green lizard disappeared Monday from his sun-bathing spot in the home of his owner, Jim Down, 15, of 1741 Monmouth, and can't be found anywhere, Jim is worried because Ed needs lots of warmth, and might not survive the cool Victoria nights — and he is sometimes a fussy eater.

"The only call I've had about him was a little old lady who suggested he might have been swallowed," said Jim.

Three Mayors Speak as One In Support of Sea Sewage

Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis and Esquimalt Mayor Ray Bryant threw their weight behind Victoria Mayor Hugh Stephen, Friday, in the controversial sewage-disposal-at-sea issue.

Mayor Curtis, who is also chairman of the regional board of the capital district, the executive body which would implement the $23,500,000 trunk-sewer plan for the Saanich Peninsula, said that he had heard nothing to convince him that disposal at sea was not a safe, effective method of dealing with the 6,350,000 gallons of sewage produced daily in this district.

He further agreed with Mayor Stephen that if the public was going to insist on sewage treatment plants, it must be prepared to pay for them—and pay heavily, he said.

Eventually, Perhaps

Mayor Curtis conceded that there might be a time in the future when primary treatment of sewage would be necessary before disposal at sea but, at this point, he accepted the recommendations of the experts who prepared the $70,000 sanitary sewage study of the area two years ago and who said sea disposal was the only effective method.

"I haven't said too much about this up to this point because, as chairman of the regional board, I have been trying to sort out the government's attitude in the matter but I certainly concur with Mayor Stephen in what he has said on the subject," Mayor Curtis said.

Esquimalt Mayor Ray Bryant, was another advocate of sea disposal of sewage.

"I certainly concur with the statements of Mayor Stephen and Mayor Curtis in this matter and I would hope that the provincial government would also see fit to go along with us," Mayor Bryant said Friday.

"The big thing, right now, is to get the whole plan in motion. We must get moving on this project soon before the question of land contamination becomes much worse," he added.

Only indication of the government's attitude in the matter came recently from Health Minister Ralph Loffmark who said that he was against dumping raw sewage at sea and would encourage his officials to oppose it.

Doctors Add Voices

Opposition to sea disposal has also been expressed by the Victoria Medical Society and the B.C. Medical Association as well as a number of local groups including the Greater Victoria Association of Women Educators.

Mayor Stephen, commenting on the opposition from the doctors and scientists at the University of Victoria, said:

"These professional people have their disciplines and I'm sure their reasons for opposing are sincere but I'm not sure they have all the facts in the matter and I'm not sure that they realize all the practical considerations involved."

One of the major considerations, aside from the health angle, the mayor pointed out, was the matter of more than $16,000,000 which would be needed to build sewage treatment plants at each of the major sewage discharge points in the district.

Mayor Stephen said that he got his figure of $16,000,000 from the sanitary sewage study and pointed out that it would be a bare minimum.

It was a two-year-old figure, the mayor added, and did not provide for operation and maintenance costs which would be heavy.

"As I have said before I am prepared to take the word of the experts who looked into this matter exhaustively that with the proper length of outfalls sewage is rendered harmless by sea water."

And as I have also said, this matter has entered the realm of the emotional. However, if the public wants treatment plants — and we all must be prepared to pay for them," Mayor Stephen said.

Nature's Daily Task

He said that he felt that some of the protesting groups were working from the premise that sewage was a "bad thing" and then finding arguments to buttress that contention.

They did not seem to realize that nature is dealing with all kinds of "sewage" and relieves every day and has its own methods of purification.

One of these was dilution in sea water.

"I wouldn't advocate dumping in the Gorge — that is the very thing we are trying to avoid. But dumping into what is, in effect, the open ocean is another thing entirely," Mayor Stephen said.

He said the sewage survey indicated that tidal currents patterns, wind-induced surface currents, salinity, temperature and other factors would render sewage harmless when it was discharged 1,000 or more feet out from the shore and at a depth of 120 feet. On this report by experts he was prepared to stand.

Officials of the city engineer's department said Friday that tests had been made with aniline-dyed water discharged at 1,000 feet and at a depth of 120 feet.

"Hundreds of gallons were flushed through piping and discharged at that point and there was no indication that there was any return in the direction of the shoreline. It was carried directly out to sea," one senior official said.

B.C. Shuns Offers —Anderson

The provincial government is to blame for the uncertainty over the safety of dumping raw sewage into the sea, David Anderson, the Member of Parliament-elect in Esquimalt-Saanich, said Friday.

The quarrel could be resolved if British Columbia took advantage of federal research assistance plans that have been available for years, he added.

Mr. Anderson said more than one year ago Ottawa offered to establish regional pollution research centres in any province wanting them. Ontario was the only one that took it up.

"When will this offer be considered by B.C.? The variety of methods of sewage disposal being examined and the differences of opinion expressed in the past few days point out the need for research," he said.

LOANS

Mr. Anderson also said B.C. has not applied for loans under Section 6B of the National Housing Act to finance two-thirds of the cost of disposal systems, including treatment plants and trunk sewage lines.

"The Greater Victoria Sewage Study recommends a system that would cost $23,500,000. The additional treatment plants, now being recommended by other authorities, would cost an extra $16,000,000."

"Federal funds will be available only until March, 1970," Mr. Anderson said. "Of the $39,500,000 made available since the program began, Ontario has received twice as much per capita as B.C. residents."

"Any delays among provincial cabinet ministers may mean the program will lapse before the available funds can be used."

One-quarter of the loan is written off upon completion of the project.

In the Victoria area, the provincial government is involved because of the regional board, said the Liberal.

EXPENSES

Mr. Anderson said he will work to have the expiry date extended, but he hopes application will be made as soon as possible to be certain full use of the funds is made if no extension is granted.

NDP:

Bunn Off List

New Democratic Party sources claimed Friday that Greater Victoria school board chairman Peter Bunn does not hold a current NDP membership.

They were commenting on a statement by Premier Bennett at the Soared by-election rally in Oak Bay Thursday night that Mr. Bunn was "head" of the local NDP.

NDP provincial secretary Wally Ross issued a statement saying that Mr. Bunn's application for current membership was received by party headquarters in Vancouver July 2. The application, dated June 28, however, was unsigned and had been returned for signature.

WRITTEN PLEDGE

A spokesman for the party said Mr. Bunn had previously been a member of the NDP. Members carry cards with a written pledge not to join or support any other political party.

Mr. Bunn said he paid his dues at the end of March and added: "It looks as if I have spoken out on something I believe in and (NDP provincial leader) Bob Strachan doesn't like it. That's too bad. Now they're looking for some way to discredit me."

EVERY RIGHT

He said Premier Bennett had every right to criticize him for political action but claimed the government must realize that politics and education are really different facets of the same process.

Meanwhile, Oak Bay NDP candidate Mrs. Mira Yarwood issued a statement that Mr. Bunn holds "no office whatsoever and no position of leadership in the New Democratic Party."

"I only hope our party will suffer no identification with the Soared because their chief presumes to appoint Mr. Bunn to the position of leader of the local NDP."

OUT OF HAND

"While a small meeting of the Victoria-Oak Bay NDP Association did decide for various reasons not to run a candidate in this by-election, the meeting rejected out of hand Mr. Bunn's proposal to support our opponents, the Liberal party."

"At a later meeting of party members living in Oak Bay to which Mr. Strachan and David Stupich were invited, those attending reversed this decision and they nominated me to be the Oak Bay candidate."

Graham McCall Retires

Chest Names New President

Graham McCall retired as president of the board of directors of the Community Chest of Greater Victoria at a meeting of the board at noon Friday.

He was succeeded by L. J. Glassford, the Chest's first vice-president. G. F. Auchinleck became first vice-president and R. D. Ferguson was elected to the post of second vice-president.

Mr. McCall has served the Chest since 1962, both as a board member and deputy chairman of the campaign committee. He assumed the duties of president on the illness of the late J. Alan Baker in 1965 and was elected to the office in March, 1966.

He completed the usual two years as president early this year but was persuaded to stay on as president to allow his successor to become more familiar with his duties. He plans to continue a close association with the Chest.

Perhaps the most significant advance in united fund-raising in Greater Victoria, in which Mr. McCall played a leading role, was the agreement concluded last year to combine the fund-raising efforts of the Chest and the Red Cross into one annual drive, now known as the United Red Feather-Red Cross Appeal.

At Friday's noon meeting Mr. McCall, who is president of McCall Brothers Limited, funeral directors, was given a silver salver and a plaque in recognition of his work. Victoria Mayor Hugh Stephen made the presentation.

***

Mr. Glassford, manager of Ocean Cement Limited, has served on the board of the Chest since his transfer back to Victoria from Vancouver in September, 1966. He was elected first vice-president at the annual meeting this spring.

Mr. Auchinleck, division manager for B.C. Telephone Company, headed the first Red Cross-Red Feather drive last fall and achieved a record increase in contributions of more than 30 per cent over the previous year.

Mr. Ferguson is manager of the Victoria branch of the Montreal Trust Company. He has been active in past United Appeal campaigns.

Service on the board of directors is entirely voluntary, with no remuneration paid to board members.

Oldtimers Really Fly High

By EILEEN LEAROLD
Life has never, never been dull for Maj. George Nicholson, author of best-selling "Vancouver Island's West Coast."

Handsome, ebullient and a great raconteur, he is going into his 82nd year with continued zest.

Last year he had a whopping party at the Express for his entire clan to celebrate his birthday, and this year he is carrying on the celebration with his two sisters who couldn't get to the party—Mrs. Vera Lawson, 84, and Miss M. C. (Peggy) Willis, 81—both from New Zealand.

He started things off by taking them up for a ride in a helicopter.

Pilot was George's grandnephew, of Vancouver Island Helicopters, Bruce Payne. "I wouldn't go up with anyone who wasn't a member of the family," said George.

The ladies, who came out on P & O-Orient Line steamer Oriana Sunday, thought the ride was great fun.

"We thought we were going about 10 miles an hour, but Bruce said it was 75, quite a surprise."

Asked if they flew very low they said, "Oh no, we just skimmed the tree-tops."

They had an intimate look at Butchart Gardens and Elk Lake and the coast line on their first bubble-top ride.

Major Nicholson's sisters have been here twice before. They said no gigantic family reunion was planned because the last one, in 1960, nearly made them hospital cases.

"No, no, no reunion this time!"

But they are doing a bit of travelling to see relatives in Courtenay (Mr. and Mrs. K. Willis), in Campbell River (Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Cook), Tofino (Mr. Cecil Willis Nicholson and Mrs. Blaine Arnett) and Vancouver (Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Willis and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Murdoch).

Major Nicholson comes from a large family of seven sisters and five brothers.

"It's a funny thing that all we boys left home young to get away from our sisters. We all ran away to sea and then wound up in Canada."

"During the First World War," said Miss Willis, "all five boys were overseas, and one of our sisters, too. She was Colonel Miss Ida G. Willis, OBE, ARRC, ED, matron-in-chief of New Zealand Army Nursing Services, in both World Wars." Colonel Miss Willis died last March, age 86.

Miss Willis and Mrs. Lawson both live in their own homes at Raumsdal Beach, about 30 miles from Wellington. They will make the return trip September 3, again in Oriana.

Mrs. Lawson is the widow of Will Lawson, author of "Pacific Steamers" and several other books on maritime history. Published in 1937, "Pacific Steamers" has been a standard reference for every steamship line engaged in the Pacific freight and passenger service since the days of sail.

As Major Nicholson and his sisters left to visit the home of Mr. and Mrs. Payne, Wishart Drive, in Colwood, he was asked if he had anything else to say.

"Just say three octogenarians had a helicopter ride today," he said.

Saanich's Water

Pressure Rises After Warning

The water situation in Saanich improved Thursday, according to municipal engineer Neville Life.

Mr. Life asked all Saanich residents Wednesday to curtail use of water for irrigation from 5:30 to 9:30 p.m., hours of peak consumption. He suggested watering during the day or after 9:30 p.m.

Several houses on Athlone, Lochside and Beckton had been out of water, he said, and the pressure on Clovelly and Hollis was very low.

"The results have been very promising," he said. "There has been a very significant improvement and if this continues we probably won't have to put restrictions on."

How many years younger

do you think your face should look to make you really happy?

When a woman uses 2nd Debut to make her face look too young, it would be said that she used it too wisely. And if she uses it to shed only one or two wrinkles, this too would be a waste of her time, energy and money. Any woman who uses 2nd Debut to make her face look too young should be told to look in the mirror and see the difference. Once this decision is made, there remains little to be gained by using 2nd Debut. It is a decision to make, and once made, it is a decision to live with.

WHAT 2nd DEBUT IS:
2nd Debut is a radical departure from the old skin care products that have been the basis of skin care for the past century. It is a scientific development based on the latest research in skin care.

It is a scientific development based on the latest research in skin care. It is a scientific development based on the latest research in skin care. It is a scientific development based on the latest research in skin care.

As contained in the emulsion 2nd Debut, this important (known as CEF) need only be applied to the surface of facial skin. The water-miscible level of the skin immediately dries. Progressively, the skin's surface appears smoother and more youthful as lines become less evident and some completely disappear. These around the eyes, the nose and mouth are usually common skin care problems. Regular nightly applications of 2nd Debut. The tone of the entire face and neck is at once lifted and gives the appearance of firmer skin as you see the end of your first 2nd Debut course in youth comes. From that point on, occasional applications of 2nd Debut with its rich CEF 600 content help facial firmness to remain and facial smoothness to continue to remove those stubborn wrinkles age lines that appear on your face. And, at some later indefinite time, you may begin another course of nightly 2nd Debut applications, with assurance it will be fully as effective as the routine just completed.

2nd Debut is made in two potencies. The first contains CEF 600 and is designed for the woman who only wrinkles; that is, the younger woman who has started to line before her time.

The double-potency CEF 1200 was formulated for the face over forty; or for the impatient lady who wants visible results without delay—or for

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I will be 16 in three weeks. My problem is my father. He has said exactly three things to me in the last five years. Please don't think I am exaggerating because I can tell you what they were.

The day after Christmas in 1963 he said, "Get off your fat rump and clean up the house. Or do you plan to let the boxes and wrapping paper lie around till next year?"

On January 2, 1964 he said, "I don't care if it was our party. Clean up the house."

Three weeks ago he said, "Either get a haircut or roll it up. You look like a witch."

I have tried to start a conversation with him many times but he ignores me or talks to me through someone else. For example, if I say, "How come your son don't match?" he'll say to my mother, "What is she bugging me about anyway?"

No Honeymoon

Dear Ann Landers: I feel like I've been hit by a 10-ton truck. Please help me to understand what has happened to me.

Peter and I went together for nearly three years. We are not teenagers far from it. I am 25, Peter is 27. For the past two years I dated him and no one else. So far as I know, he was completely faithful to me also. Last February he gave me a diamond. We planned to be married in August.

We've been apartment hunting and made honeymoon plans. I've been buying linens and china.

Last night after dinner I felt something caught between my two front teeth. I took a toothpick and tried to dislodge what must have been a piece of chicken. Peter suddenly jumped out of his chair and said, "The wedding is off! I could never marry a woman whose manners are so poor that she would use a toothpick in my presence."

He then launched into a tirade about my upbringing and how all of a sudden he saw me as I really am—uncouth, coarse, vulgar, and "no lady."

I burst into tears, handed him his ring and he left.

Ballerina Is Milashka

By EUGENIA SHEPPARD

NEW YORK — "I'm always on a diet," said Maya Plisetskaya, who was having lunch with her interpreter, Helen Gillespie, in Mollie Parris's private office. "Dieting to me means just eating less and hardly anything at night." As she spoke, the red-haired ballerina of the Bolshoi Ballet, tilted the cream pitcher until her coffee was pale beige, and then dropped in half a dozen lumps of sugar. She drank two cups.

Plisetskaya (pronounced with the accent on the set) doesn't have to worry, though. She can wear a model size dress from the rack in any Seventh Avenue showroom. The only problem is that she's five-feet-five inches tall, about three inches shorter than Mollie's long drawnout girls.

In Mollie's showroom Plisetskaya took off a beige broadtail coat with mink collar and cuffs. It had an American Charles James label in the back. Underneath she was wearing a two-piece Italian knit dress, taupe brown and trimmed with amber-colored heads around the edge of the pullover and cuffs. Yellow and brown are her favorite colors.

It was her second visit to Mollie, but the 43-year-old ballerina looked even younger and more with it than on the first: two years ago. Her skirt was two or three inches above the knees. She wore fresh-colored zylons and pale beige open-back slippers with low heels. Her wonderful mass of thick, curly, dark red hair was brushed back simply and held by a plastic barrette at the nape of her neck.

"I like short skirts. I like low heels, too, but I find the high ones far more flattering," Plisetskaya said, always through Mrs. Gillespie.

Last time Plisetskaya took away Mollie's short, beaded chignon dress that was a luxurious Ford (around $2,000) with American solidities that summer.

When she arrived on the West Coast, Ethel Kennedy was wearing one, Plisetskaya recalled. She first wore hers to one of the big parties. As she entered the room she heard an ominous ripping sound. The sheer, white chignon foundation had parted down the back.

"I borrowed Mr. Hurok's white jacket," she said. "When I got home to Russia I had the whole jeweled dress mounted on nylon. Now I have the most beautiful, durable dress in Moscow."

Plisetskaya is not one for the see-through or even the bare look. The one dress at which she shook her head no, in Mollie's collection, was the long white crepe with the parted midriff.

Plisetskaya has little or no time off to play. She dances in every performance of the ballet and rehearses all day. She has managed to make the theatre only a few times, to see Martha Graham the graduating exercises of Banchine's school and to hear the Philharmonic. She longs to see "Fiddler on the Roof."

She has heard about Arthur and has a date with Mike Nichols to go. Already she has been a guest in Mike Nichols's apartment.

"She loves to shop," said Hurok's representative. "I think she has already been in Woolworth's."

One thing is sure, Plisetskaya loves clothes. When Mollie's model started to show the ballerina's big eyes turned even greener, and she smiled, a delighted childish smile when each dress appeared.

Plisetskaya is Russian for adorable or cutie pie, according to the interpreter, and it's the word Plisetskaya used for the long-sleeved white lace and the brown wool daytime dress that can be worn without or with the belt. Plisetskaya likes the belted look.

Obviously her heart is in party clothes. She cried out, "Russia," when Mollie's mid-length, mint green satin with a short, white mink-trimmed jacket appeared. "It looks interesting, but I would order it short," she added.

After the brief showing, Plisetskaya went to the dressing room for the trying-on. Back in the showroom, she strutted and whirled in a campy imitation of a fashion model. Believe, me, she could get the job if she wanted it.

Even Plisetskaya's feet are the right size for American Models' shoes. She wears 8 AA. It's those long feet of hers that give her extra height when she's on point on the stage.

After the try-on, Plisetskaya's decision came fast. No one could be with her for ten minutes without realizing that she has a mind of her own.

She chose a short, black velvet dress with a fitted top, flaring skirt and jeweled high collar and cuffs for next winter's parties in Moscow. She had reacted to it with, "Fabulous," when she first saw it.

Killer Linked To Bulgaria

NEW YORK (UPI) — Police Friday cleared some of the mystery about the gunman who killed a pretty dog walker in Central Park and wounded three other persons, including two policemen, and then was himself slain.

The latest fact to come to light was that Angel or Angelos Angelof fled Bulgaria on foot in 1955. Sometime after that, Angelof, who was about 42 when he was killed by police on top of a comfort station in a Central Park playground Wednesday, turned up at a refugee receiving camp in Greece.

New York police said a refugee group known as the "World Church Service" processed him through the camp and brought him to the United States in February of 1956.

Federal Investigation

The National Council of Churches has a refugee organization known as the Church World Service and it was through that this was the group that brought him here.

Police have asked the U.S. naturalization and immigration service as well as the FBI to check on Angelof's background. Angelof's Greek passport indicated he lived in Russia at one time, but detectives working the case said they had no knowledge of this.

A coroner's report on the autopsy made on Angelof disclosed he was shot eight times during the gun battle with police.

Angelof was gunned down after he killed Lalah Kissler, a 24-year-old dog walker and aspiring artist from Kingston, Pa.

She was walking a dog in Central Park when she stopped to visit a comfort station and was killed by a bullet through the head. Immediately afterward, Angelof climbed to the top of the comfort station and shot an elderly man who was sitting on a nearby park bench.

Then a wild gun battle started between Angelof and dozens of police.

Steady Procession

Swabs Testify No Diphtheria

Greater Victoria health authorities said Friday they believed that most of the people who had been in contact with a diphtheria carrier in the city June 29 had checked in for throat swab tests.

And in all cases, said Dr. J. T. Bailey, assistant medical officer, tests had been negative.

The metropolitan health board issued an appeal Thursday after it was learned that from 30 to 40 persons attended a celebration in a private home on June 29—a home at which a nine-year-old boy, a diphtheria carrier, was quarantined.

PROCESSION

The people who attended were asked to report to the health board for tests.

"The first people started to check in last night and there has been a steady procession all day," said Dr. Bailey, Friday. "I think we have most of them. Although there is a possibility that one or two have not yet been made aware of the need for tests," Dr. Bailey said.

STRONG WARNING

Dr. Bailey used the occasion to issue a strong warning to all district parents.

"We have often stressed the need for immunization against diphtheria. Most people have had their children inoculated but there is a feeling that diphtheria is a dead disease."

"A recent death in Vancouver plus two other known cases in that city should be enough to convince everyone that immunization is important."

"I would advise all parents to check and make sure their children have been immunized and if they have not to get them done as soon as possible," Dr. Bailey said.

They'll Fight

Lawyer, Ray Confer

LONDON (AP) — James Earl Ray's American lawyer visited him in prison for the first time Friday and said afterward Ray will make a court fight against charges of slaying in Tennessee of Dr. Martin Luther King.

"If this man comes to trial, if he's the man, he will plead not guilty," Arthur Hanes of Birmingham, Ala., told reporters here.

He said also that Ray's health and mental attitudes are good.

No Status

Hanes and Michael Eugene, Ray's court-appointed British lawyer for the extradition proceedings here, spent 35 minutes in an interview room with Ray at Wandsworth Prison.

The British lawyer had to be present because Hanes has no status as a lawyer in Britain. Then Hanes left and Eugene spoke to Ray about the British extradition order against him, which is coming up on appeal late this month.

Hanes indicated he probably would fight any prosecution move for shifting the trial from Memphis, Tenn., where King was shot to death April 4.

TV Everywhere

"Most of the other citizens of the United States have television and they have got a barrage of information on this case everywhere. I see no point in a change of venue."

He also insisted on referring to his client as Ramon George Sneyd, although a British magistrate has held that the prisoner's identity as Ray has been proved. Hanes said it would be up to the prosecution to prove it again in an American court.

He added that he had received three letters from the prison signed "R. G. Sneyd." In general, he said, they covered the man's request for legal representation and for an interview with the American lawyer.

Ray was arrested at London's Heathrow Airport June 8 by Scotland Yard agents and accused of using a forged Canadian passport in the name of Sneyd and possessing an unlicensed gun. Those charges are still pending.

Ontario Families

Thalidomide Suit Paid Out of Court

TORONTO (CP) — Lawyers for seven Ontario families with thalidomide babies announced Thursday there has been an out-of-court settlement in a $10,000,000 damages suit against the American manufacturer of the drug.

Donald Traci of Cleveland and Allen Linden, an Osgoode Hall law professor, would not disclose the amount of the settlement involving seven Toronto and Hamilton couples.

The settlement was approved by Chief Justice Dalton Wells. Richardson-Merrell Inc. of Ohio, the company involved in the suit, initiated the talks.

The Ontario actions were brought by Carmine Molisee, Carl Betson, Patrick Gallagher and their wives, all of Toronto and the Settle, Hatch, Nemeth and Braden families of Hamilton.

In February, the British manufacturer of the drug, Distillers Company Biochemicals Ltd., agreed to an out-of-court settlement of 40 per cent of the original claim.

Kennedy Killing Figure

Plot-Knowledge Claimer Found Hanging in Cell

CIUDAD JUARES, Mexico (Reuters) — A Mexican-American youth who claimed he knew of a plot to assassinate U.S. Senator Robert Kennedy was found dead Thursday night, hanging from his cell bars with strips of bedsheet wound around his neck, police disclosed Friday.

Crispin Curiel Gonzalez, 17, had been held here since June 17 after entries in his diary referring to a plot to kill Kennedy were discovered. The diary was found in a street here and handed over to police.

Other entries claimed the youth knew the accused assassin of Kennedy, Sirhan Sirhan, whom he claimed to have met in a public library at Los Angeles only days before the assassination.

U.S. FBI agents from El Paso had interrogated the youth together with Mexican agents but said last week they could find no evidence linking him with the accused assassin. After a preliminary court hearing a week ago, the judge ordered that the youth be taken to a hospital psychiatric ward to be observed. A police spokesman said Curiel Gonzalez, angry because nobody believed he knew about the assassination plot, had told guards in the last few days he would kill himself.

B.C. Has Trio in Cabinet

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau Friday night named a 29-man cabinet, including eight new members.

To the old guard which had served former prime minister Pearson, Trudeau added such new faces as those of Horace A. Olson, former Social Creditor, as minister of agriculture, and Eric Kierans as postmaster general, later to become minister of communications.

The prime minister also did some considerable shuffling among the veteran ministers, making

• No 'inner cabinet' right now. Page 2.

John Turner minister of justice and Allan MacEachen minister of manpower.

Jean Marchand, Trudeau's right-hand man, becomes minister of forestry and rural development and will later take over as minister responsible for regional development.

This may be the biggest portfolio in the cabinet outside of the prime minister's. Trudeau has pledged to try to cure regional economic disparities.

Besides Olson and Kierans, the new cabinet members are:

Jean-Eudes Dube, veterans affairs; Ronald Basford, consumer and corporate affairs; Don Jamieson, defence production, later to become supply and services; and Robert Andras, James Richardson and Otto E. Lang, all ministers without portfolio.

Richardson, from Winnipeg, and Lang, from Saskatoon, are the only freshman MPs.

Trudeau paid traditional attention to regional representation in the cabinet. Quebec is represented by 10 ministers, including Trudeau, and Ontario by 10.

Labor Secretary:

IWA Out Monday

A warning that an industry-wide British Columbia coast forest strike could begin within 72 hours was issued by labor leaders Friday following a conference of unions.

"I am fairly convinced they (the companies) have approximately 72 hours to reach an agreement," said Ray Haynes, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labor. "By Monday the men will be walking off the job everywhere."

His remarks were made to reporters following a Vancouver meeting involving the 26,000-member Coast International Woodworkers of America and representatives of the International Pulp, Sulphate Union, the United Paperworkers, the United Steelworkers and the Canadian Labor Congress.

But Murray Drew, president of the 1,800-member Victoria local said strike action has not yet been authorized.

"This is just his (Mr. Haynes) personal opinion," he said, "and he's entitled to it."

"As long as we're still talking, a settlement is always possible."

The meeting prompted Mr. Haynes' remarks came on the heels of another day of negotiations between the IWA and 14 coast forest companies over a new contract. Both sides declined comment on progress, if any. Further meetings are scheduled for 10:30 a.m. today.

SETTLEMENT THERE

"It is obvious if a full closure of the forest industry is to be averted management must get down to realistic bargaining," said Mr. Haynes.

"In view of current settlements it is obvious a settlement is there if the employer puts forth a realistic and reasonable offer."

The companies have offered 30 cents in two years on a base rate of $2.75 an hour. The union seeks a 66-cent hourly pay increase in two years.

Meanwhile, about 100 loggers and sawmill workers in the Lake Cowichan area on Vancouver Island continued unannounced walkouts Friday.

MILLS, LOGGING

The walkouts affect a Western Forest Products Ltd. sawmill at Honeymoon Bay and the company's logging operation at Gordon River, the Cayuse logging division of B.C. Forest Products Ltd. and the Menzies Lake logging operation of T. W. MacKenzie Ltd.

The 4,000-member loggers IWA local, meanwhile, has set a strike deadline of 4 p.m. next Wednesday if a settlement is not reached.

Barnett By Three

PORT ALBERT — Voters from the Bull Harbour area have cut the 52-vote lead of New Democrat Tom Barnett to three in the (unconcluded) election battle.

The final tally Friday gave him 11,943 votes to Liberal Richard Durrant's 11,936.

Because officials ran out of adding machines tapes, final figures for the other candidates will be announced today.

Mr. Barnett was out of town during the count, but his campaign manager, Ron Hess, said he assumed that a recount would be sought.

Bolts Torch B.C. Trees

Dry thunderstorms moving through the Interior have ignited 100 fires in the Kamloops forest district in the past few days and weekend warning trends have made the all-B.C. fire picture serious.

Harshest hit was the Horsefly district of the Cariboo where 50 lightning strikes were reported. A small shingle mill was destroyed. All fires were under control Friday night.

Two-acre fire was brought under control at Sprout Lake Friday. (See Page 13)

Quebec Chief Heart Victim

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Daniel Johnson's doctor said Friday night the 53-year-old leader of the Union Nationale government has suffered a mild heart attack.

Dr. Yves Morin, director of the Quebec Cardiology Institute, said in an interview clinical tests show the attack did not damage the premier's heart.

"It's an attack which did not damage the organ," said Dr. Morin, who added that the premier will be able to return to work but will be forced to slow down his pace.

DECESSION LATER

The heart specialist said he cannot say at this time how long the premier's period of convalescence will last. He said he probably will be in a position to make a better judgment within 10 days.

The doctor said the attack began at the premier's suite in the Chateau Frontenac hotel Wednesday morning and continued for one hour after he entered the Cardiology Institute at Laval Hospital in suburban Ste. Foy.

CLEARER PICTURE

The interview with Dr. Morin was arranged late Friday night by the premier's aides who felt that an earlier medical bulletin had led to the interpretation that the premier's illness was more serious than it actually is.

Johnson's illness forced cancellation of a scheduled July 11 visit to France and England. He was to have met with President Charles de Gaulle in Paris to review Franco-Quebec educational and cultural agreements and occupy a prominent place beside the French leader at July 14 Bastille Day ceremonies in Paris.

Doctor Deflates Bustline Boom

LONDON (AP) — There may be a built-in peril in those built-in falsies, girls seeking bigger busts were warned by a leading British physician Friday.

Injections of silicone fluid may add extra satisfying inches but they can lead to surgery, he said.

Dr. William St. Clair Symmers, 30, pathologist at London's Charing Cross Hospital Medical School, claims to have seen 31 cases of disfigurement resulting from injection of substances such as paraffin, bees wax, putty, silk tangle and spun glass.

Color Sunbathers A Dorian Gray

VANCOUVER (CP) — Like any Italian, Dr. Ferdinando Serri likes to see shapely girls in bikinis. But not when they are lying in the sun.

Serri, here for the annual convention of the Canadian Dermatology Association, said Thursday sunbathing ages the skin.

And women, he said, puzzle him because they are not taking the advice of doctors.

Lip-Smacking Peril

LONDON (LST) — The amount of lipstick which is "voted" by women every day is worrying a public analyst. The lipstick contains a high proportion of coloring matter and women are swallowing more dye from cosmetics than they do in any other way, said Joan Peden, Somerset County analyst, in her annual report.

THEY'RE POLLS APART

VADUZ (UPI) — Never underestimate the power of a man in Liechtenstein.

The voters of this tiny state between Switzerland and Austria got around Thursday after 500 years to deciding whether women should be given political rights. They did it right.

Males of Liechtenstein decided to let their women vote. So 2,238 men and 2,506 women went to the polls.

They decided—2,592 to 2,152—that a woman's place is not in the voting booth.

Male election officials said 1,341 of the women voted to deny themselves voting rights.

The men voted 1,351 to 887 against women having political rights.

As many as 300,000 women are believed to have been executed for witchcraft in Europe between the years 1684 and 1782.

Rebel Picketers Keep Line

DUNCAN — A handful of unauthorized picketers again prevented about 700 loggers and sawmill workers from going to work in the Lake Cowichan area.

It was the second day of the wildest strike at the Honeymoon Bay sawmill of Western Forest Industries and IWA officials of local 150 said nothing could be done about the picket line.

About 12 IWA members expressed their dissatisfaction with dragged-out negotiations between the IWA and FIR by setting up an unauthorized picket line Thursday morning. Operations affected so far include Western Forest Industries, Crown and Zellerbach, B.C. Forest Products, Mackenzie Logging and some small contractors.

First vice-president of local 150, Fernie Viala described the picket line as a sacred cow that nobody dares to touch.

He said members of the organized labor movement recognize picket lines regardless of whether they are authorized or not.

He said: "Our constitution does not allow for the removal of the picket line. In our opinion the majority rules and when you have a group of people who will not abide by the majority rule you have to make an attempt to reason with those people.

"Our constitution provides for trial before the membership but it is a very time consuming process and union officers only can proceed if a charge is laid by a member at a membership meeting.

"Unless the constitution is changed we cannot do anything about unauthorized picket lines."

Another union official pointed out that democracy's weakest point appears when its basic principles are abused.

One of the union members, who was prevented from going to work by the picket line, charged that one of the few instigators has a thriving private business in addition to working for a lumber company.

Sawmill manager, Don Hammond, said that the mill's power plant had to be shut down and that it would take 12 hours to reactivate power.

He said some of the mill-workers who were prevented by the picketers from entering the sawmill told him that they are unhappy about the situation.

Women's View:

Duncan Needs Covered Pool

DUNCAN — A group of older women have taken the plunge and learned to swim, under the instruction of Mrs. Tom Hamilton. They all agree Duncan needs a covered swimming pool to offer year-round training facilities.

The swim classes were held at the pool of North Cowichan firemen who pay the maintenance from their own pockets.

One of the students said: "You are never too old to learn to swim and I hope our example encourages other older people to take swim training."

The firemen also sponsor a Red Cross swim class for children.

Nanaimo Riding Liberals Lodging Complaint

By HENRY BESSIER

NANAIMO—Officials of the federal Liberal association for Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands have decided to lodge a formal complaint with the Canadian chief electoral officer over discrepancies in reporting final voting figures after the June federal election.

The decision was made at a special meeting Friday.

President Douglas Greer said the association felt an overall discrepancy of about 5,000 votes — almost 15 per cent of the total votes cast — between the election night total given out by the district returning officer and the actual count announced Tuesday was too large a discrepancy to go unchallenged.

Mr. Greer said the association has contemplated asking for an official recount but felt no useful purpose could be served by such a move. It decided instead to make a formal complaint under section 54 (2) of the Election Act.

"We do not feel the actual order of finish — NDP first and Liberal second — would be altered in any way, we only feel that such a large discrepancy in reporting which occurred should be investigated and measures taken to ensure such an unfortunate situation is not allowed to arise again."

WIDE MARGIN

"It is very fortunate that a wide enough margin existed between the candidates in the final tally to absorb such a colossal error, otherwise we would have had a very bitter situation and major problem on our hands," he said.

The formal complaint, which must be included in the chief electoral officer's next report to the speaker of the Commons, will be drafted by the association next week.

New Democrat Colin Cameron, re-elected MP for the riding, said, following the Liberal decision: "Yes, I think there was some carelessness somewhere on election night."

"VERY COMPETENT"

"I'm not sure where it was. Returning officer Fred Spencer has always struck me as being very competent."

"What happened is this. The candidates and their workers were all so anxious to get their returns in that they had set up a system whereby returns were phoned in from all the polls, not merely the ones that were a long way away, but ones right in Nanaimo were phoned in. And later the DROs, having nothing else to do but pack up their ballot boxes and come in with them, didn't tell the checkers at headquarters that this has already been counted and so it gets counted again."

CLOSE TALLY

"I don't think there is anything startling about the errors. On election night we were keeping a close tally. We had Dave Snipich doing the counting for us and he's a chartered accountant. I'm surprised the Liberals weren't doing the same thing."

"I was surprised when I saw the tallies the next morning and I soon realized that some of the ballot boxes had been counted twice. There was no question of any candidate having his hopes raised and then having them dashed."

MINOR PRECAUTIONS

"I can think of one or two minor precautions that could be taken and I imagine will be taken in the future — possibly clearly marking any ballot boxes from which the returns have been phoned in and to check that they're not counted twice."

Mr. Cameron said a comment made Thursday by Liberal Mladen Zorkin that the deputy returning officers were uncooperative, was "uncalled for."

"I didn't find the deputy returning officers unfriendly at all. But I can well understand that if Mr. Zorkin went to all the polls as he did to the ones where I saw him with a retinue following him into the polling stations, that many DROs would say 'What the hell's going on here!'"

Funeral Today

YOUNBOU — Resident of Youbou for several years, Anton Elsen, has died in Cowichan district hospital, Duncan, aged 70. He arrived in Canada in 1927, and lived at Medford, Sask. He later came to Youbou, B.C.

He then went to the Grossieck and Trueman camp and later, went to Chayum. He worked with the same company at Nitona until he retired in 1955. Mr. Elsen was a former member of the IWA.

Services will be held at Hirst Funeral Chapel today, at 1:30 p.m., followed by cremation.

After Circus Visit

Softball Group Angry About State of Field

DUNCAN — Members of the senior women's softball group here are angry about the condition of the Pioneer Park playing ground following the recent visit of a circus.

Mrs. Geoffrey Chaster said: "We have fought for 15 years to get this field and they (circus) wrecked it in one night."

She was referring to the one-night stand of the Carson and Barnes Circus which performed in a section of Pioneer Park a few days ago.

The circus appearance was sponsored by Duncan Kiwanis Club.

DOUBLE-HEADER Mrs. Chaster said her softball group was scheduled to play a double header against a Courtenay team this weekend at the softball pitch.

She said the ground has been completely spoiled by the circus animals, and deep holes left by tent pegs pose a great danger for players.

"When we came down Thursday night to play we were absolutely disgusted. The grass was spoiled and it stank terribly."

"We don't blame the circus or the animals for it, but we blame the responsible persons who allowed the circus to go there."

EXHIBITION GROUNDS

"We have the Exhibition grounds with all the facilities for animals practically next door to our field."

"They gave the field to us. Why didn't they ask us if they could use it? Now it can cost close to $1,500 to repair the damage and we shall be lucky if we can use it in two years."

Mrs. Chaster said in addition to the damage, the $25 pitcher's mound was taken.

Her group consists of 14 adult members and 33 junior girls. Another ball group offered its field to the softball players for the game this weekend, she said.

"These facilities have been rented without too much consideration for the various groups using them," said Earl O'Neill, North Cowichan recreation director.

"This problem is being dealt with. We have too many different administrative groups dealing with recreation and I hope recreation will soon be put under one administration."

JOINT COMMITTEE

Pioneer Park is administered by a joint Duncan and North Cowichan committee. Mr. O'Neill, employed by North Cowichan, but not by Duncan, has no jurisdiction over Pioneer Park.

The joint park committee chairman Ald. Tom Kilpatrick, of Duncan, said he had referred the complaint to the superintendent.

He said the joint committee allowed the circus to use part of the park.

"I don't think there is too much damage and I am quite sure our park crew will have the damage repaired soon."

Union Bay Record

Younger Brother Continues Proud Tradition

By MARY MOORE

UNION BAY—Teachers at Union Bay are impressed by the school attendance records of the Bullen children.

Four years ago, at the annual awards ceremonies, elementary school principal Doug Goetz drew attention to the fact that Patsy, Bill and Ricky Bullen had all achieved perfect attendance for the year. "I find that these three students have piled up a total of 1,560 days without being absent from school. I don't know how their mother manages it!"

This record is still growing, with younger brother, David, carrying on the family tradition. In three years of school, he already has two years perfect attendance.

Ricky, with nine years of school completed, has had perfect attendance for six years. Patsy, now going into Grade 12, has had four years perfect attendance, and Bill has had two years out of 10 without being absent.

The Bullen family lives 1½ miles south of Union Bay, and the children travel to school on the school bus.

Many times heavy snowfalls and raging southeast gales have cut off electricity, and posed a problem in getting the family fed and ready for school.

"We had our troubles," said Mrs. Bullen, "but as long as the school bus ran, our children made it to school!"

MacDiarmid Says:

Accept Tender For Hospital

PORT ALBERNI — Tenders which were $500,000 more than the estimates for remodeling and renovation of West Coast General Hospital need not necessarily mean extended construction delays, said Dr. Howard MacDiarmid, M.L.A.

Taxpayers had earlier approved a $1,000,000 referendum for the work.

"The Regional Hospital District Act allows the regional hospital board to seek permission from the provincial cabinet to waive the necessity of returning to the electorate with another referendum," said Dr. MacDiarmid Friday.

"Since the original referendum was approved so strongly and since the bid is only about 15 per cent above original estimates, it is my belief they should go ahead and accept the tender. The 30 days acceptance period is not up until July 13.

"I am afraid that if the matter is returned for another referendum, it could be a further period of 10 months, or a year, before everything is set to go again. During that time, costs could quite easily rise another 8 or 10 per cent, and the situation would be right back where it is today," said Dr. MacDiarmid.

He said he had been in close touch with the situation and had approached several cabinet members concerning the problem.

"I feel they are very sympathetic, and I have outlined to the secretary of the regional hospital district, Jim Sawyer, the procedure to be gone through to try and gain this required waiver from the cabinet."

If permission to proceed is granted, the additional costs would be shared in the same way as the original expense — proportionately by local taxpayers and the federal and provincial government grants, he said.

Mr. Sawyer said a special meeting of the regional hospital district group had been called for next week. It was hoped to put the problem before cabinet by next Saturday.

Six Awards

GOLD RIVER — Thirteen-year-old Craig Acherson received six awards during Gold River elementary school's awards day ceremony recently. He has been named captain of Youth House and captain of the boys' softball team. But he believes the credit should be shared. He said afterwards that he received the awards on behalf of the team and his house.

Sproat Lake

Forest Fire Beaten Within Two Hours

PORT ALBERNI — A two-acre forest fire in the Sproat Lake area was brought under control within about two hours on Friday.

The fire, on Macmillan Blue-del property, was reported shortly before 3 p.m. It took nine drops by the water-bomber, plus efforts by bulldozers and ground firefighters, to halt the outbreak by 5 p.m.

Very warm temperatures in the Alberni Valley has considerably increased the fire hazard during the past few days.

The fire broke out on the mountain behind Weiner Bay. The Forest Industries Flying Tankers' bird-dog was up within minutes to report on the situation and a giant bomber

B.C. TRIO JOINS CABINET

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau Friday night named a 29-man cabinet, including eight new members. B.C. has three on the team.

To the old guard which had served former Prime Minister Pearson, Trudeau added such new faces as those of Horace A. Olson, former Social Creditor, as minister of agriculture, and Eric Kierans as postmaster general, later to become minister of communications.

The prime minister also did some considerable shuffling among the veteran ministers, making

● No 'inner cabinet' right now. Page 2.

John Turner minister of justice and Allan MacEachen minister of manpower.

Jean Marchand, Trudeau's right-hand man, becomes minister of forestry and rural development and will later take over as minister responsible for regional development.

This may be the biggest portfolio in the cabinet outside of the prime minister's. Trudeau has pledged to try to cure regional economic disparities.

Besides Olson and Kierans, the new cabinet members are:

Jean-Eudes Dube, veterans affairs; Ronald Basford, consumer and corporate affairs; Don Jamieson, defence production, later to become supply and services; and Robert Andras, James Richardson and Otto E. Lang, all ministers without portfolio.

Richardson, from Winnipeg, and Lang, from Saskatoon, are the only freshman MPs.

Trudeau paid traditional attention to regional representation in the cabinet. Quebec is represented by 10 ministers, including Trudeau, and Ontario by 10.

Labor Secretary:

IWA Out Monday

A warning that an industry-wide British Columbia coast forest strike could begin within 72 hours was issued by labor leaders Friday following a conference of unions.

"I am fairly convinced they (the companies) have approximately 72 hours to reach an agreement," said Ray Haynes, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labor. "By Monday the men will be walking off the job everywhere."

His remarks were made to reporters following a Vancouver meeting involving the 25,000-member Coast International Woodworkers of America and representatives of the International Pulp, Sulphite Union, the United Paperworkers, the United Steelworkers and the Canadian Labor Congress.

NOT AUTHORIZED

But Murray Drew, president of the 1,800-member Victoria local said strike action has not yet been authorized.

"This is just his (Mr. Haynes') personal opinion," he said, "and he's entitled to it."

"As long as we're still talking, a settlement is always possible."

The meeting prompted Mr. Haynes' remarks came on the heels of another day of negotiations between the IWA and 114 coast forest companies over a new contract. Both sides declined comment on progress, if any. Further meetings are scheduled for 10:30 a.m. today.

SETTLEMENT THERE

"It is obvious if a full closure of the forest industry is to be averted management must get down to realistic bargaining," said Mr. Haynes.

"In view of current settlements it is obvious a settlement is there if the employer puts forth a realistic and responsible offer."

The companies have offered 30 cents in two years on a base rate of $2.76 an hour. The union seeks a 66-cent hourly pay increase in two years.

Meanwhile, about 700 loggers and sawmill workers in the Lake Cowichan area on Vancouver Island continued unattended walkouts Friday.

MLLS LOGGING

The walkouts affect a Western Forest Products Ltd. sawmill at Honeymoon Bay and the company's logging operation at Gordon River, the Cayuse logging division of B.C. Forest Products Ltd. and the Mosquito Lake logging operation of T. W. MacKenzie Ltd.

The 4,000-member loggers IWA local, meanwhile, has set a strike deadline of 4 p.m. next Wednesday if a settlement is not reached.

Barnett By Three

PORT ALBERT — Voters from the Bull Harbour area have cut the 33-vote lead of New Democrat Tom Barnett to three in the Cnnox-Albert election battle.

The final tally Friday gave him 11,943 votes to Liberal Richard Durrant's 11,946. Because officials ran out of adding machines tape, final figures for the other candidates will be announced today.

Mr. Barnett was out of town during the count, but his campaign manager, Ron Hess, said he assumed that a recount would be sought.

Bolts Torch B.C. Trees

Dry thunderstorms moving through the Interior have ignited 100 fires in the Kamloops forest district in the past few days and weekend warning trends have made the all-B.C. fire picture serious.

Harshest hit was the Horsefly district of the Cariboo where 50 lightning strikes were reported. A small shingle mill was destroyed. All fires were under control Friday night.

Two-acre fire was brought under control at Sprout Lake Friday. (See Page 33.)

Quebec Chief Heart Victim

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Daniel Johnson's doctor said Friday night the 53-year-old leader of the Union Nationale government has suffered a mild heart attack.

Dr. Yves Morin, director of the Quebec Cardiology Institute, said in an interview clinical tests show the attack did not damage the premier's heart.

"It's an attack which did not damage the organ," said Dr. Morin, who added that the premier will be able to return to work but will be forced to slow down his pace.

DECISION LATER

The heart specialist said he cannot say at this time how long the premier's period of convalescence will last. He said he probably will be in a position to make a better judgment within 10 days.

The doctor said the attack began at the premier's suite in the Chateau Frontenac hotel Wednesday morning and continued for one hour after he entered the Cardiology Institute at Laval Hospital in suburban Ste. Foy.

CLEARER PICTURE

The interview with Dr. Morin was arranged late Friday night by the premier's aides who felt that an earlier medical bulletin had led to the interpretation that the premier's illness was more serious than it actually is.

Johnson's illness forced cancellation of a scheduled July 11 visit to France and England. He was to have met with President Charles de Gaulle in Paris to review Franco-Quebec educational and cultural agreements and occupy a prominent place beside the French leader at July 14 Bastille Day ceremonies in Paris.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Like any Italian, Dr. Ferdinando Serri likes to see shapely girls in bikinis. But not when they are lying in the sun.

LONDON (LST) — The amount of lipstick which is "real" by women every day is worrying a public analyst. ## THEY'RE POLLS APART

VADUZ (UPI) — Never underestimate the power of a man in Liechtenstein.

The voters of this tiny state between Switzerland and Austria got around Thursday after 500 years to deciding whether women should be given a political rights. They did it right.

Males of Liechtenstein decided to let their women vote. So 2,238 men and 2,506 women went to the polls.

They decided 2,592 to 2,152 — that a woman's place is not in the voting booth.

Male election officials said 1,231 of the women voted to deny themselves voting rights.

The men voted 1,231 to 387 against women having political rights.

As many as 30,000 women are believed to have been executed for witchcraft in Europe between the years 1484 and 1782.
